Coffee-Thirsty Atlantans Stage Gold Rush, 1942 War Style

Downtown Crowd Stands in Line for Supply.

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

The Gold Rush of '49 was re-enacted in Broad street yesterday, right in the heart of that busy stretch between Alabama and Marietta street, where a pedestrian on normal days has to be a Sink with if yardage is what he wants.

The weaving, elbowing masses of men and women, trying to get from here to there along that sidewalk, found themselves blocked completely out of the play as they huffed and puffed toward their destinations.

Outside a grocery store, a mob was gathered.

Men and women were blocked in a solid mass, those in the front line with their noses flattened against the plate glass windows. Those in the rear were on tiptoe, peering over shoulders.

Something was going on inside that store—and the old public curiosity went to work.

"What is it—a murder?" gasped the newcomers.

"Nope," cooed someone in the front row, "it's better than a murder—they got coffee in there."

"Coffee!" shrieked several women in hysterical chorus. "Lemme in!"

"Coffee—that's treasure," commented an elderly woman.

"Coffee!" Everyone swung into line.

Inside the store, way back to the rear—some 60 feet or so—the newcomers could see the line stretching to a counter. They inched along, peering ahead, worried whether the supply would last.

It was Atlanta's initiation into the food lines of a nation at war.

Next year, it might be any other kind of food—but the immediate concern of Atlanta today is coffee.

Not a customer was paying any

KEEP IN LINE, PLEASE—They're after coffee, and the best they'll get is a pound to the person. Every hour yesterday, 300 persons walked out of this grocery store with a pound of that precious coffee in his hands. They practically ignored the other foods on sale.

DRIP OR PERC?—Either way you liked your coffee, you got it from Mrs. Audrey Steele, who is grinding, while Howard Alley, smiling in the background, passes the wrapped package to the customer. The grinding machine worked at top speed all day.

Tech Unit Gives World War I Torpedo, Mine, Shells for Scrap

Eight big shells, a torpedo and mine—all intended for the Germans during World War I—were given another craze at the Georgia Tech Naval R. O. T. C. got together 12 tons of old metal for the Newspapers' scrap drive.

Addition of these ornaments was accompanied by the enthusiastic announcement of WPA workers that their trucks had hit the half million pound mark in the curbing pickup campaign.

Collection of 53,125 pounds from the Georgia Tech area boosted the total for 10 days to 510,560 pounds.

Uncounted in this total for yesterday's collection was the Naval R. O. T. C.'s 12 tons, which will require removal by a crew of volunteers from the Atlanta Federation of Trades.

There are eight of the 14-inch shells, each weighing 1,463 pounds, and the mine weighs 1,200 pounds. Naval officers said. The shells, embedded in concrete, have been used as posts for a chain guarding the yard in front of the armory. The chain will go to the scrap heap, too.

The mine and torpedo have been used as ornaments in the yard. The mine is of the type used in the North Sea during World War I. Several depth charges also will be sent to the steel mills as scrap put up by The Constitution and

Pick-up trucks will canvass the Center Hill and Bolton section today. The area is bounded on the north by the Seaboard railroad and Lowe street; on the west by Bolton road, Mayson-Turner road and Highland road; on the south by the line running through the center of Lincoln park, and on the east by the L. & N. railroad and Ellsworth avenue.

Today is the last for curbing pick-ups, according to present plans. Army trucks will make special pick-ups tomorrow as the three-week drive is concluded.

Nazis Will Use Force in Work Edict to French

VICHY, France, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Amid German charges that the Allies planned to attack Dakar, Admiral Darlan, chief of Vichy's armed forces, flew to that west African port today to tell the population in the name of Chief of State Pétain that "new menaces ring out against you."

In German-occupied Paris the Nazi authorities meanwhile warned French workers they would be forced to go to Germany unless they responded voluntarily.

This German official order resulted from the nonappearance of designated skilled workers at a railway station yesterday and presumably their failure to report today at the same point for German-bound trains.

Confers With Pétain.

Pierre Laval, Vichy chief of government, who already had warned French workers that they must freely go to Germany to fulfill Berlin's demand for 150,000 laborers, returned here this afternoon from conferences with French and German officials in Paris.

He immediately conferred with Marshal Pétain and Fernand de Brinon, Vichy ambassador to Paris.

The Darlan visit to Dakar, scene of an abortive Free French-British attack in September, 1940, was one of evident urgency.

He compared the present situation of Dakar to that of Madagascar before the big Indian ocean island was occupied by British forces. Quoting from the message he carried from Marshal Pétain, he added that any new attack on Dakar would meet "the same answer as in September, 1940," when DeGaulle-British expedition failed to take the port from the sea.

Denies Dakar Charges.

Darlan's trip followed reports of the landing of United States troops in Liberia, which has a long land frontier in common with contiguous French African territories.

In his speech, made over the Dakar radio, Darlan gave the local population Pétain's assertion, made "with the most legitimate pride," that charges concerning German utilization of Dakar were false.

Yesterday the Vichy admiralty had issued a formal denial of accusations that German submarines in the South Atlantic had received aid from French west Africa.

Dealers Allowed To Stock Up Tires

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration today made arrangements to allow all tire dealers to stock up on new tires made of reclaimed rubber, and recapped and reused tires for sale to owners of passenger cars who will become eligible for rationed tires in the near future.

Under the new mileage rationing program which will go into effect throughout the country November 22 every car, which actually will be able to get tires of one kind or another.

Each dealer's establishment will be allowed to stock up to an amount up to its 1941 sales. After the first stocking up, however, the dealer will have to turn in a ration certificates taken from his customers in order to replenish his stocks.

MORE MANPOWER.

MELBOURNE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Married men up to 40 years old who are not in protected industries or reserved occupations now are liable to immediate call into the armed services, Army Minister Francis Forde announced today. He said Australia's forces were not yet up to the full strength and other classes could not supply the manpower needed.

Ideal Week For Rentals

During the next few days hundreds of Constitution readers will search through the rental columns in search of better places to live. If you have a vacant house, apartment, or room, it will pay you to place a rental ad in The Constitution on the low 7-day rate. The cost of a Want Ad is less than what you will lose if your property remains vacant.

Axis Loses 500 In Bitter Fight In Volga Bastion

MOSCOW, (Friday) Oct. 23.—(P)—The Red army fighting on the snowy steppes northwest of Stalingrad occupied two Nazi trenches in an offensive spurt yesterday while inside the besieged city the Russians in hand-to-hand combat killed a battalion of Germans and smashed 12 enemy tanks in a successful defense now entering its sixtieth day.

The Soviet midnight communiqué said 200 Nazis were slain in their trenches northwest of Stalingrad as "Red army men by a sudden blow broke into the enemy's positions," and five machine-guns, 36 tommy-guns and other equipment were seized.

500 Enemy Slain.

A two-day fight in another sector of the same front, where the Russians have been attacking the Nazi flank to relieve pressure on the Stalingrad garrison, resulted in the killing of 500 German and Rumanian troops, the bulletin added. This fight was said to have developed from an Axis effort to recapture some hill strongholds.

"In the area of Stalingrad," the communiqué related, "our troops repelled enemy infantry and tank attacks. The Germans attacked in the area of a factory. In bitter fighting which often developed into hand-to-hand engagements 12 German tanks were smashed and one battalion (about 500 men) was wiped out."

South of Stalingrad the Russians said one of their units destroyed another German infantry company along with five guns and 20 machine-guns.

Russians Resolute.

Snow and cold rains began enveloping the Stalingrad area yesterday as the Russians continued their resolute defense amid the ruins of the battered Volga river city, and front dispatches said the German penetrations into the northern industrial district several days ago still were ineffective.

In the Caucasus the communiqué acknowledged the Germans had "succeeded in driving a wedge into the front line of our defenses" in the Mozdok area, but added "fighting is in progress for the an-

J.D. Humphries, Noted Jurist, Succumbs Here

Judge John David Humphries Sr., 69, distinguished member of the Georgia bar for nearly half a century, died yesterday morning at 10:25 o'clock at his home, 914 East Rock Springs road.

He had been ill for several weeks and death came as a result of a heart attack.

Judge Humphries served continuously as judge of the superior court in the Atlanta circuit since 1919 and was nominated for a four-year term last September. He will be succeeded as senior judge by Judge E. E. Pomeroy.

He was mayor of Hapeville when elected to the judgeship in 1919.

He was the author of numerous articles on legal procedure, legal history and grand jury procedure. In 1937 he completed an outline of Georgia laws from the state's beginning as a colony.

Judge Humphries favored abolition of the grand jury system in handling criminal cases, advocating substitution of trial by accusation or information. He said elimination of indictments would speed justice and save large sums annually.

Outside the law, where he gained prominence not only as a jurist but as an author, Judge Humphries was best known for his interest in astronomy. He was an enthusiastic amateur astronomer and kept open house the year round for anyone who wanted to view the heavens through his famous five-foot telescope.

The judge, himself, a descendant of pioneer Georgians who settled near the site of Atlanta many years before the city was ever founded, was a student of genealogy and the author of several treatises on the subject. He contributed regularly to the Atlanta

Message From the Front

By GRANTLAND RICE.

When my time comes and all farewells are said
To what few friends may still survive the fight,
I shall not shrink to hear the ghostly tread
That signals Death is stalking through the night

To lead me forth across the Mystic Moor

Unto the Taverns of the Silent Land—

But I shall smile—and through the open door

We two shall go, as good friends—hand in hand.

There I shall meet the friends who've gone before,
And we shall gather in a room apart,
And, cup to cup, shall pledge the days of yore,
Soul unto soul and silent heart to heart;
And there beneath the crimson rose that nods
And sways above us, free from toil and strife,
We'll quaff to you—forgotten by the gods—
Poor souls who linger at the Inn of Life.

EX-ATLANTA CHAPLAIN

H. B. Hodgkins Recognized in News Picture

Thousands of Atlantans who had known or heard Lieutenant Commander Henry Bell Hodgkins while he was stationed at the Naval Reserve Aviation Base here as chaplain were surprised to see his picture on the front page of Thursday's Constitution.

Commander Hodgkins, with hand upraised, was shown intoning the last prayer over the flag-draped coffin of a U. S. seaman killed in the North Atlantic while serving as a gunner on a merchant ship. The picture, made in Iceland, showed crosses over graves of other Americans in the background.

Popular and well known, Commander Hodgkins spoke at many churches here during his stay from December, 1941, until he was sent on foreign duty in the middle of last summer. "He was the type that would 'praise the Lord and pass the ammunition,'" Navy friends of the chaplain said.

A native of Savannah, Commander Hodgkins attended the University of Virginia and the University of the South at Sewanee, where he was graduated with a bachelor of divinity degree in 1926.

He was rector at Christ's church in Pensacola, Fla., before going on active duty. The Episcopalian minister also had served in Columbia, Tenn.; Savannah and Washington.

He has been a member of the Naval Reserve since 1923, and while at Sewanee went on a summer cruise as a second-class seaman. Later, he transferred to the Chaplain's Corps as a lieutenant junior grade. He was in the chief of chaplains' office in Washington in 1930, promoted to lieutenant in 1932 and to lieutenant commander in 1940.

Mrs. Chappell, 88, Succumbs Here

Mrs. Mary Plumb Chappell, 88, died Wednesday night at the residence, 1096 Marietta street, N. W., after a long illness.

She is survived by two sons, A. M. and Grover C. Chappell, of Atlanta, and several grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the graveside in Fidelle, Ga., near Calhoun. The procession will leave Awtry & Lowndes Funeral Home at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Ginning Report Shows Gain in Athens Area

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 22.—An increase of 6,062 bales ginned prior to October 1 this year in Clarke, Madison and Oglethorpe counties, as compared to the same date last year, has been reported by special agents of the Department of Commerce in the three counties.

Clarke showed an increase of 1,048 bales with 2,006 ginned this year compared with 958 last year to the same date. Madison reported 7,875 bales ginned prior to October 1, compared with 4,462 bales to the same date in 1941. Oglethorpe's increase was 1,561 bales, 2,768 being ginned before October 1 as compared with 1,207 bales prior to that date last year.

OPA Announces Ceiling on Pork

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(P)—In a move to distribute pork supplies more equitably and relieve pressure for higher retail prices, the Office of Price Administration today put a ceiling on all common cuts and types of pork at the packers' and wholesalers' level.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson said the order, effective November 2 and setting up differential prices in three zones, would eliminate the possibility of higher retail pork prices and remove some "abnormalities" resulting from the present system of selling the meat.

The maximum cost of pork lions delivered to retailers in the central zone, including Iowa, will be 27 1/4 cents per pound under the new schedule. In the Chicago area, the maximum will be 27 1/2 cents, and in the third zone, all points outside of the Chicago and central areas, it will be the central zone price plus a differential to cover freight costs. Under existing regulations, the range is from 25 1/2 to 34 cents per pound.

Captain Rickenbacker's Four Queens Stump U. S. Generals

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—One of the most closely guarded "military secrets" of the war seeped out today—Captain Eddie Rickenbacker's one-man Commando raid on the poker-proud chiefs of the United States Army Air Forces.

Protesting that he "had only one virtue" and that was that he never had played poker, Rickenbacker sat in on a game with Major General Carl Spaatz, chief of the United States Air Forces in the European theater, and Brigadier General Asa Duncan, Air Force chief of staff, during his recent visit to England.

On the first hand Rickenbacker laid down four queens with the query, "Is this enough?" and from then on it went from bad to worse—for Spaatz and his staff.

Rickenbacker also stopped off at Major General Ira C. Eaker's bomber command. By then, his game had improved.

Woman on Trial On Murder Count

GRAY, Ga., Oct. 22.—(P)—Mrs. Elsie Simmons was placed on trial today on a charge of murder in the death of Harris Jones, 64-year-old Rockville farmer, following conviction of Ernest Fuller, 29, of Eatonton, on a similar charge yesterday.

Fuller was given a life sentence. Ennis Key, 19, also is charged with murder in the case.

The state contends the trio killed and robbed Jones on the night of July 18. The defense claims Jones was killed accidentally when he slipped from the rear end of an automobile truck.

Man Is Given 40 Years For Purse Snatching

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 22.—Jack Watson, a Negro with a long criminal record, was found guilty of robbery yesterday in Fulton superior court and sentenced to serve 40 years by Judge Virgil B. Moore.

Watson was convicted of snatching the purse of Miss Thelma Westbrook, of 914 Hollywood avenue, on September 13, and that of Mrs. T. L. Boston, of 44 Peachtree place, N. E., on September 20.

Slattery Foresees Fantastic Jump In Dixie Industry

Let the southern states drop their hot pursuit of individual benefits and co-ordinate their efforts toward a common advancement, and you'll see an almost fantastic development of industry in this section during the inevitable post-war reconstruction period, believes Harry Slattery, whose long career in the world of government resources stretches from "Roosevelt to Roosevelt."

The trend, of course, was apparent some years ago when northern capital realized the advantages of southern climate, labor and proximity to world markets. They have recently been convinced that the concentration of industry in the east represents an Achilles' heel vulnerable to air attack through Newfoundland.

But the trouble is, South Carolinian Slattery said yesterday, that congressmen and pressure groups have been so busy arguing over needs of their own bailiwicks that higher pressure organizations in the north have run off with a lion's share of the assets.

Public Appointments.

When Slattery says he knows quite a lot about the United States he isn't boasting, joking or kidding. Since signing up as secretary to Gifford Pinchot in 1912, he has led a life affording an insight into American problems that few men have ever enjoyed.

Some of the score of public appointments he has held include special assistant to Interior Secretary Franklin K. Lane during World War I and right-hand man to Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes from 1933 to 1936. He has been REA administrator since 1939.

Slattery, here to address Georgia and Florida REA co-operative superintendents holding a conference at the Biltmore hotel on how they can speed the flow of scrap from rural areas, also said he believed cheap electric power would greatly alleviate the shortage of farm labor, particularly in the dairy industry.

"Both the REA and private utilities saw what was coming and encouraged farmers to buy labor-saving appliances," he said, "and many of them have stocked up on equipment. Some appliances, operated by a woman, can take the place of eight men."

Officials were warned, however, not to overstep themselves in collecting scrap by C. O. Falkenwald, chief of REA's appraisement and loan division, who has been designated co-ordinator to work with the WPA in the salvage drive.

Sawmill Scrapped.

In one state, he said, workers found an abandoned sawmill and had scrapped it before they learned the owner had never been consulted. They quickly asked—and got—his permission to salvage the mill, and learned that all he wanted out of the deal was a war bond of small denomination.

Williams as a power agency official said its efforts had been

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(P) Reversing a recent downward trend, railroads moved 838,163 barrels of petroleum daily into the oil-short east during the week ended October 17, or 71,753 more barrels daily than in the preceding week. Petroleum Co-operative Ickes announced today.

Ickes attributed the upgrade trend to pooling facilities and supplies and to greater movement of oil in solid train lots.

Navy Seeking Men To Train As Officers

Openings in Schools for College Graduates Are Announced Here.

Openings in officer training schools for college graduates between the ages of 18 and 28 were announced yesterday by the Navy Department through the District Officer Procurement Office here.

These schools will convene prior to January 15, the announcement by Captain Marion C. Robertson, new director of Naval Officer Procurement for the Sixth Naval District, said.

Captain Robertson said: "These men are needed now and will be sent to duty in our officer training schools as soon as their papers are processed."

"As far as possible," he added, "these men will be allowed to select the branch of naval service they desire if qualified. There will be openings for officers for deck duties, for engineers in duties in the Construction Corps, as gunnery officers, for special service in aviation, in the Civil Engineering Corps, in the communications division, and in the Supply Corps. Of course, they will be assigned as the exigencies of the war demand."

He said that requirements for enlistment were the ages of between 18 and 28, a college degree, at least two one-semester courses of mathematics, and a course of trigonometry completed during either secondary school or college.

"Applicants may be either married or single," he added.

Captain Robertson outlined the training program for men in this branch. The applicant will first go to a 30-day school at the end of which it will be decided if he has the necessary qualifications. If so, he would be sent to a three months school as a reserve midshipman. At the end of the first month's training Captain Robertson stated, applicants will be allowed to return to their homes, or if they desire, to transfer to another branch of the service as enlisted personnel, if they are found not qualified.

Upon the successful completion of the full training period, applicants will be commissioned as ensigns in the Naval Reserve.

Full details may be obtained at the nearest Navy Recruiting station or Office of Naval Officer Procurement. ## Farmer Found Church Opens Fatally Shot in Nursery School DeKalb County November 16

Children of War-Worker Mothers May Be Enrolled.

For the benefit of war-worker mothers with small children, the Peachtree Christian church will open a nursery school November 16, to be held at the church, which is located at the corner of Peachtree and Spring streets, it was announced yesterday.

Children from 2 to 5 years of age will be enrolled, and there will be a fee of 25 cents per day to cover costs of the hot lunch, fruit juice and cod liver oil served each child.

Miss Ann Rauschenberg will direct the school, which will operate daily except Sunday, from 7:30 o'clock in the morning to 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The church office will be open to receive applicants from noon to 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

This is the tenth nursery school sponsored by Peachtree Christian, and Robert W. Burks, minister, says that the school will provide competent supervision and excellent training for the small children whose mothers are employed in war industry.

Atlanta Schools Win Book Honors

Three Atlanta schools received awards for their 1942 year-book, the National Scholastic Press Association has announced. They were Fulton High school, Washington Seminary, and North Avenue Presbyterian.

Washington Seminary's "Facts and Fancies" was given the all-American, or highest rating among private schools of its size, under the leadership of Jessie Strickland, and Martha Cronholm and Constance Coolidge, business managers.

Eugene Tritt was editor of Fulton High's "Forum," which won a first class honor rating, and Harold Steele was business manager. Directing NAPS's "Napsonia," which won a second class honor rating were Martha Rumble, editor, and Gloria Ann Melchior, business manager.

The statement was issued to clarify widespread misunderstanding.

At the same time, OPA reassured motorists outside the rationed eastern area that when rationing begins in the rest of the country November 22 special fuel allowances would be made to enable persons caught away from home to get to their residences.

Vichy Regime Plans Flight to Africa, Bern Rumors Hint

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS.

BERN, Switzerland, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Well-informed observers asserted tonight that Admiral Darlan, chief of Vichy's sea, land and air forces, now at Dakar, is checking the possibility of using French Africa as a base in the event the Nazi pressure to send workers to Germany leads to open chaos in France and a decision by some sort of French government to leave Vichy.

Youths Offered Guard Training

Georgia youths can have the benefit of two years of military training before going into the Army even at 18 years of age under a new program announced yesterday by Colonel Lindley W. Camp, commanding officer of the State Guard.

"Ablebodied, man-sized" boys of 16 may now enlist in the State Guard to fill ranks depleted by men being drafted into the armed forces, Colonel Camp said.

"This will give boys two years of training before they enter the Army, even if the draft age is lowered to 18," he said. "Many of the Georgia guardmen entering the Army so far have received commissions right away."

"Big events are ahead of France," said one Frenchman who should be well informed and with good connections in Vichy. "The French are in the mood now to refuse to go much further. Anything may happen. Nothing may happen. Wait and see."

These sources must remain anonymous, but it was said that much depends on how the Germans exert further pressure and the reaction of workers, now joined by many factory owners, in opposing the attempt to force them to labor for Germany.

The situation became so acute two days before Chief of Government Pierre Laval spoke last Tuesday night, according to private advices from unoccupied France, that cabinet members were ordered to prepare to leave Vichy on 24 hours notice.

No developments followed, however, and the "alert" order was rescinded.

Critical situations in Vichy have arisen without end since the 1940 armistice only to dwindle until a new incident evolved a new crisis.

The present question of labor conscription, however, involving almost every Frenchman individually, is more serious than any hitherto confronted and there are these points which private observers accepted as based on sound facts:

"Laval is fighting a bitter battle to retain his position as, in the words of the Gazette de Lausanne, the 'lesser evil.'

He is reliably said to have until November 1 formally to order conscription and until November 30 to deliver workmen to Germany.

He is said to be well aware of the risks involved.

A number of Frenchmen who anti-Laval believe he has told the Germans that conscription probably would fail.

He might go so far, these Frenchmen feel, in an effort to keep his position as to recommend that the government abandon Vichy.

If he does not and Axis pressure is kept up, the effort may be made by others.

Riom War Guilt Trials Not Likely To Reopen

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—French circles in Vichy regard it as unlikely that the Riom war responsibility trials will be reopened, according to information from usually reliable European sources.

The trials recessed last April, supposedly for two weeks, but never resumed. Reports in mid-June that they might be renewed in two months never materialized.

It does not and Axis pressure is kept up, the effort may be made by others.

Coffee - Thirsty Atlantans Rush Grocery Store

attention to the offerings of freshly-watered vegetables, the frosted glass cases chug which choice cuts of meat could be seen waiting for a customer.

The coffee line was paralyzing virtually all other business in the store.

"I'm going to need a few side show bakers to get their minds off the coffee and divert their attention to these nice vegetables we have here," said the manager.

"I need a man who can corroborate convincingly about the curative effects of collard greens on the digestive tracts. Not a soul has paid any attention to those collard greens—they all want coffee."

All except one timid, elderly man who had been moving along in the line for about a half hour.

He reached the coffee counter at long last.

"I'd like a pound of American cheese," he confided timidly.

The man who had been grinning and serving coffee for two hours at the rate of 300 pounds an hour, grew at the timid little man.

"Brother," he said, "step aside out of that line. Go ask somebody else to come back here and slice you a pound of cheese."

The coffee seekers were annoyed at this interruption.

They glared at the man who wanted cheese.

"Imagine!" said a woman, "he wants cheese, when he can get coffee."

The line came along all day, blacks and white, old and young. They wanted coffee—no collard greens, no cheese.

They were getting it at the rate by regulation—only a pound to a customer.

At the doorway, a woman operates a mechanical doughnut cooker. Her business was at a standstill.

"You'd think," she said wistfully, "that people who have just bought some coffee would want to buy some doughnuts—but they just glare at me when I suggest a doughnut or so with their coffee."

"I'm going to move this machine out into the street—the coffee business is too much competition for the doughnut."

Then she added:

"Next year, they may be wishing they had one of my doughnuts. It'll be a lot harder than this."

Oliver C. Ferrell Succumbs at 72

Oliver C. Ferrell, 72, of 635 Highland avenue, N. E., died yesterday at a private hospital.

A retired printer, Ferrell was born in Nash county, N. C. He established the O. C. Ferrell Company in Rocky Mount, N. C., in 1903, and brought the business with him to Atlanta in 1919. The firm went out of business when he retired several years ago.

He is survived by one daughter, Miss Ollie Ferrell, of Atlanta, and two sons, Captain Oliver C. Ferrell Jr. and Private George M. Ferrell, of the United States Army.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon. Dr. Louis D. Newton will officiate and burial will be in Hill Crest cemetery.

Georgian, Home From Pacific, Wants To Even Japanese Score

MOULTRIE, Ga., Oct. 22.—(AP) First Class Petty Officer Julian Hall, who had his ship shot out from under him during action in the Solomons islands while covering the landing of Marines on Guadalcanal, said he and other survivors of the sinking share the same desire.

"All of us want to get back in the Pacific and take another crack at those Japs," he declared.

And from his experiences, he said, by shell fire, have good reason for wanting to even scores.

Hall said a Jap cruiser "ploughed right through the men in the water and machine-gunned us as they went past." He admitted he wanted to come home badly to see my family, but now that I've seen them once more, I can hardly wait to get aboard another ship and engage the sons of the Rising Sun again."

A first class petty officer with navigational duties, Hall has been with the United States Navy several years. A half-dozen years ago he delivered papers to the Moultrie Observer.

The auxiliary vessel Little, which the Navy Department announced recently had been sunk in action during the early stages of the battle for the Solomons, was among the group of Navy ships which landed the first United States Marines at Tulagi and near the airport on Guadalcanal. Hall said Marines, landing after a heavy barrage, met little resistance on Guadalcanal and quickly took over the airfield, which the Japs had nearly completed.

"Those U. S. Marines are just as tough as the stories you hear about them," Hall declared, "and they were itching for a fight. The Pearl Harbor incident still is like waving a red flag in front of a bull to the Marines and once they hit land there's no stopping them."

Jap cruisers "began shooting at us almost the moment the first flare went up," Hall said, "and from then on it was like a big Fourth of July celebration—everything was popping at once."

Pow-o-lin Brought Happy Relief From Indigestion, Jumpy Nerves, Sluggish, Achy, Let-Down Feeling, States Miss Doster. Thousands of Georgia Men and Women Join Her in Praising Pow-o-lin.

Miss Irene Doster, well-known resident of Route 3, Athens, Ga., declares:

"My suffering from indigestion, gas pressure and headaches was almost more than I felt I could bear. I hardly ate enough to keep my strength and energy because of the fear of gas pressure that made me feel stuffy and smother. I don't believe anyone ever had worse headaches, and at times I felt dizzy with spots before my eyes. My nerves felt on edge until I didn't know what a night's sound sleep was like. The least activity made me feel fatigued and limp. Constipation forced me to take strong laxatives. I was discouraged about myself and didn't know where to turn next for relief."

"I would be selfish not to tell others of the happy relief I got from the best medicine I ever saw. Pow-o-lin, I am relieved of the indigestion, gassy bloating and miserable let-down, achy, sluggish feeling. I don't have to take harsh laxatives and sleep so soundly I feel full of energy in the morning. I hope anyone who may suffer as I did will try Pow-o-lin. It proved a blessing in my stubborn case."

Pow-o-lin is a purely herbal preparation for the relief of distress as described by Miss Doster when due to constipation. Thousands praise it.

Morris Ewing Named Head of Realty Board

Strauss Sees All Food, Clothing Rationed by Next March.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Rationing of all food and clothing by March of next year was predicted today by Oscar R. Strauss Jr., of Atlanta, regional director of the Office of Price Administration.

In an address before the twenty-third annual convention of the Georgia Association of Real Estate Boards, he further predicted that the supply of alcoholics would be exhausted in three years.

Morris M. Ewing, of Atlanta, was elected president of the association. Other officers include: H. Gould Barrett, of Augusta, vice president; William A. Fickling, of Macon, treasurer; Herbert F. Gibbons, of Savannah, secretary, and William G. Hardeman, of Macon, executive secretary.

State councilors re-elected for another term are: Ward Wight and Paul C. Maddox, of Atlanta, and William Gilbert Jr., of Savannah.

The association pledged its support to Georgia's incoming Governor, Ellis Arnall, in one resolution, and in another, requested the establishment of a congressional committee to study problems of urban development.

Macon was selected as the meeting place for the 1943 convention.

The Macon board was awarded two trophies for outstanding accomplishments in 1942 at the banquet held last night. The Macon organization was awarded the Atlanta Title and Trust Company trophy as the board in the state that had "done the most good in 1942," and the R. R. Otis trophy for "having accomplished the most in state, county and civic activities during the year."

D. W. Osborne, of Atlanta, was awarded the Alvin B. Cates trophy for having made the most unique sale in 1942.

Adjourn Courts Until After Funeral of Judge Humphries.

His six associates on the superior court bench yesterday passed a resolution honoring Judge John D. Humphries and adjourned his courts until after his funeral.

The resolution held that "the administration of justice in this community and in the state has suffered an irreparable loss and this court and its judges have lost a most efficient and loyal member and associate."

The resolution was signed by Judges E. Pomeroy, Virlyn Moore, Hugh M. Dorsey, Paul Etheridge, Walter C. Hendrix and A. L. Etheridge.

of the Sons and Daughters of Pilgrims.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at Spring Hill. Dr. Luther B. Bridgers and the Rev. J. W. O. McElroy will officiate and burial will be in Jones Chapel cemetery.

For the last 40 years, the judge taught a Methodist men's Bible class. Many of his class at the Haygood Memorial church will serve pallbearers at the funeral and members of the Atlanta Chapter.

Sons of the American Revolution, of which he was immediate past president, will serve as honorary escort.

Members of the honorary escort, named yesterday by Judge Augustus M. Roan, who succeeded Judge Humphries as president, are: Dr. A. G. DeLoache, Scott Candler, Edgar R. W. Gunn, Chris A. Rauschemberg and Governor Talmadge.

J. L. Edwards, first lieutenant commander of John B. Gordon Camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans, of which Judge Humphries was commander, announced the following members of the camp as an honorary escort at the judge's funeral:

Colonel B. L. Bugg, McWhorter Milner, Charles W. West, H. F. West, John Ashley Jones, L. J. Hood, J. Sam Slicer and R. Low Reynolds.

Surviving are his wife, two daughters, Miss Annie Humphries, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Wilbur S. Jones, of Dublin, Ga.; a son, Major John D. Humphries Jr., of Norfolk; five sisters, Miss Dora Humphries, Mrs. Robert Snelson, of Savannah; Mrs. Frank Brown, of Lyons, Ga.; Mrs. Roland Perdue and Mrs. Jesse Burks, of Atlanta; one brother, Dan Ed Humphries; and three grandchildren, Miss Joanne Jones, Miss Annette Jones, both of Dublin; and Miss Lille Humphries, of Norfolk.

As the city's foremost student of astronomy, Judge Humphries served as a mentor for those interested in the antics of Finsler's comet the summer of 1937. He held a "comet party" at his home and invited scores of friends and fellow astronomers to view the celestial body through his telescope.

"My greatest thrill," the judge said, "was to learn as a boy that Venus is visible in the daytime, if you know where to look for it. I've always said that when they built a 200-inch telescope I'd be pretty certain to take a look at it."

Judge Humphries' best known legal work is a book called "Instructions to Juries," based on 20 years' experience on the superior court bench.

Full-Size Seamobile To Be Built

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(P)—A line-driven ship formerly called the "sea otter." The contract was awarded to the U. S. Shipbuilding Corporation at Yonkers, N. Y. The sea otter has been a source of controversy in high administration and shipbuilding circles for over a year, one side contending it was the answer to the submarine and the other that the vessel was wholly impracticable.

British Turn Bomber Into Torpedo Plane

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(P)—The first disclosure that Britain has converted some of her twin-engined Hampden medium bombers into torpedo planes was given by the air ministry today in a communique which said that one, on patrol with the coastal command yesterday, had scored a hit on an enemy supply ship off the Norwegian coast.

Hampdens recently had been used in mine-laying operations and modifications were necessary to make them efficient long-distance torpedo bombers.

As a bomber, they had a speed of 265 miles an hour and a range of 1,725 miles, carried a crew of four and were armed with three gun positions.

Youngsters Piling Up Scrap To See Free Movie at Grand

Atlanta kids are a scrapping bunch, according to Eddie Pentecost, manager of Loew's Grand theater, for teen-aged youngsters in Atlanta and vicinity have shown lots of enthusiasm in "getting in the scrap" in exchange for a ticket to the Loew's Scrap Matinee to be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

In co-operation with the newspaper's scrap drive, Pentecost set up a scrap station at the intersection of Spring street and Carnegie way where Atlanta kids may bring at least five pounds of metal or two pounds of rubber and get a ticket to see a popular show free. Pluto, Mickey Mouse and lots of other Disney characters along with Gang comedies will be shown on the screen during this matinee.

Yesterday the heap of metal and rubber brought to the new scrap station was growing higher and higher. The station is enclosed by large banners which explain how tickets may be obtained in exchange for scrap.

Group Theater Will Present Play Tonight

Comedy, 'Squaring the Circle,' To Be Given at Woman's Club.

Atlanta's Group Theater will present "Squaring the Circle," a comedy dealing with the life of the Russian people, at the Woman's Club auditorium at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

The famous comedy in three acts, by Valentine Kataev, will open the Group's third season devoted to the production of great plays. It is a fast-moving, homely yarn about the happiness and the heartbreaks of four young Russians.

The Group's production is staged by Hill Bermont. Original music for the play has been written by the young Atlanta composer, Michael Ehrhardt. Scenery was designed by Larry Mastin, and the costumes by Elinor Sauls. Both are young Atlantans and members of the Group Theater.

The cast is announced as follows: Private Julian Rawlings, Clare Holman, Zenas Sears, Ann Campbell, John Camp, Winston Dawson, Charles Snow, Lynnette Wilcox, Martha Trimble, Jean Rothstein, Elinor Dawson, Bob Davis, Margaret Blinco, Merle Reagan and Mary Coddington. Nancy Lochridge is stage manager, David Tokars, property manager.

Paul Robeson To Sing Folk Songs Tonight

Bass-Baritone Will Be Heard at Wheat Street Church.

Paul Robeson, noted bass-baritone will sing in concert at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Wheat Street Baptist church, Auburn avenue and Yonge street.

He comes to Atlanta from Birmingham, where he sang before capacity audiences Wednesday. A concert in New Orleans Monday night met with good response.

All indications point to a capacity crowd at Wheat Street church tonight. The Negro singer will be featured in a special rendition of the folk oratorio, "Ballad for Americans," in which he will have the support of a local chorus under the direction of Kemper Harrel, of Spelman College. His program will include Negro folk songs as well as various other types of music.

Leaders Picked In Ten Cities For Navy Day

Gentry Announces List of Local Committee-men in Georgia.

Roy Gentry, state chairman of Navy Day activities, announced yesterday a list of Navy Day committees in 10 cities and towns of the state.

These committees will charge of all ceremonies and activities on Nav Day, October 27.

Navy Day is sponsored by the Navy League of the United States—a volunteer association of individuals—and is designed as a day when the people will turn their thoughts to what their Navy means to them.

October 27 was selected as Navy Day because it is the anniversary of the birth of President Theodore Roosevelt, so much of whose life was devoted to establishing sound naval policy. October 27 is also the birthday of the American Navy. On that day in 1775 the first resolution to authorize American warships was introduced into the Continental Congress.

In Macon,

In Macon, P. A. McArthur is general chairman of the Navy Day committee. Other members are Dr. Mark Smith, Lee Trimble, W. C. Pittman, Joe Clisby, P. F. Gatlin, W. T. Williford, Phil Buckheit, Dr. R. Holmes Mason.

Mayor Thomas Gamble is general chairman of the Savannah committee. The other members are Bishop Gerald P. O'Hara, Bishop Middleton Barnwell, H. V. Jenkins, Raymond M. Demere, Olin F. Fulmer, J. P. Houlihan, Robert W. Groves, William Murphy, General Camp Stewart, commanding officer, Savannah Air Base, and officers of the U. S. Navy in charge of Port of Savannah and this district.

Richard Tift is chairman of the Albany committee and other members are C. H. Smith and Mrs. George Cahill.

In LaGrange, Enoch Callaway is chairman, and the other members are Mrs. S. O'Neal, George Cahill, the Rev. M. M. Maxwell and Miss Eleanor Orr.

In Athens, Dr. Harmon Caldwell, president of the University of Georgia, and Captain C. E. Smith, U. S. N., commanding officer, are in charge of the Navy Day activities.

The chairmen in other cities and towns follow:

Columbus, Edward Murray; Augusta, Ray Flingson; Brunswick, Mayor J. Hunter Hopkins; Valdosta, P. G. Blitch; Waycross, Solicitor General Dave M. Parker.

Bonus Price Given

On Over-Quota Peanuts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(P)—Farmers who market their over-quota peanuts in bags under the peanut marketing program will receive $2 a ton more than for "excess" peanuts delivered in bulk, the Agriculture Department announced today.

Bagged "quota" peanuts, the department said, would bring no extra payment because they are grown mostly on acreages normally used for that crop where sales, handling and storage methods are well established.

"Excess" peanuts, it was explained, are those marketed above farm marketing quotas. Grown largely on new acreages, they frequently must be marketed in bags.

Two Georgians Are Gunners in Plane on Raid

Five Focke-Wulf 190's Routed in Battle on Lorient Attack.

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM.

UNITED STATES FLYING FORTRESS STATION SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN, Oct. 22.—(P)—A Flying Fortress, dubbed "Hellzapoppin," fought off at least a dozen attacks by Germany's dangerous Focke-Wulf 190s during the raid on Lorient yesterday and returned to its base without a scratch.

"The most unusual thing was that we were attacked so much and didn't even get hit once," said the first pilot, Captain Arthur M. Hughes, of Spokane, Wash.

He was seconded by Staff Sergeant Delest Cooper, of Wheat, Tenn., turret gunner and engineer, who declared "five attacked us at one time, but they were as sorry as hell about it afterward because we drove 'em all off."

"We were all in it shooting when five came at us," Cooper continued. "The tail gunner was the first to start shooting. The Focke-Wulfs were firing at us all the time, but not hitting us. We peeled them off one at a time. That attack was broken up.

"We got one and shared another with a second ship."

First Time for Team.

Sergeant Alton H. Hinson, of Cochran, Ga., the tail gunner, told it this way:

"We got one coming in from the rear to attack us. We gave him bursts. He got about 300 yards from us and then blew up. The ship fell in about four pieces, all burning."

Lieutenant Carl S. Peklenik, Louisville, Ky., the navigator, asserted our evasive action was excellent throughout. We flew in a very good and tight formation and it was hard for the enemy to get a bead on us.

"It was one of those things you don't go into combat for the first time but that you do after having a little experience."

The Lorient foray was the first time this entire crew of fighting youngsters, comrades in training, ever had been together on an operation over the German-occupied territory.

Some of the crew have been in eight flights, all told.

"Hellzapoppin' is a good name for our ship, it sure is," commented Staff Sergeant David H. Evans, of Johnstown, Pa., the radio operator.

Members of Crew.

Others of the crew were Lieutenants James K. Bone, of Creson, Texas, co-pilot; Alfred J. Cogdill, of Lexington, Ky., bombardier; Sergeant Victor S. Hunter, of Matthews, N.C., ball turret gunner and assistant radioman; Larry B. Hagan, of Lancaster, Pa., waist gunner; George F. Richardson Jr., of Savannah, Ga., radio gunner.

Lieutenant Carl H. Esmay, of Saint Mary's, Idaho, co-pilot of a Fortress in another squadron, gave this account of the raid which cost the Germans nine fighters:

"As we approached the French coast we were met by about 15 to 20 enemy fighters. They flew under our formation and attacked us from the rear. They pressed the attack about 10 to 15 minutes and then withdrew.

"About the same time we began running into heavy flak.

Prepare Now

The congress has passed and the President has signed the new tax bill. That bill, now a law, exacts taxes from the people of the United States at rates undreamed only a few months ago.

There are new excise levies and many other so-called indirect tax increases which will bear heavily upon the pocketbooks of the people. But, most notable of all, is an increase in income tax rates which will make any taxes paid in the past seem like inconsequential pocket change for most of us.

No man can say, however, he has not had ample warning of the wartime tax demands. The bill has been in preparation for months. Debates in committees and in both houses of congress have been fully publicized. While there have been changes and amendments, the general trend of the bill has been the same throughout—to multiply many times the amount of income tax each individual has to pay. What is more, the exemptions have been so lowered that millions who never paid before, will have to pay before March 15 next, the deadline for returns, rolls around.

Thus for months the entire country has been given a pretty general conception of what was to come. None can say, therefore, they did not have ample warning. The man of wisdom will immediately set about putting his financial house in order so that he can pay the tax when it is due. This involves, in most cases, a drastic lowering of the family budget and the family scale of living. But this is war, and the American who is not willing and eager to do this much for his country and his country's cause is an extremely rare specimen.

Taxes must be paid. Next year they will constitute a heavy drain upon the income of the average man. But the demand can be met, without inconvenience or suffering, if only preparations are made now, by each one of us, and life promptly adjusted to the new demands.

War Itself Is Inhumane

Japan has announced that American fliers, seized after air raids against Japan, will be tried on charges of "inhumanity" and punished with death if found guilty. Which amounts to exactly nothing if it is intended as a deterrent to any new bombings of Japan we may be planning.

It is clear from the Japanese statement that any bombing of Japan proper will be regarded as "inhumane." This is, of course, fully in line with the entire philosophy of both Germany and Japan. That is, they constitute a superior type of humanity and the peoples of all other countries belong to a lower, or sub-human, breed. Thus, to their minds, it is quite proper and in accord with all rules of war for their airmen to bomb other peoples, but it becomes "inhumane" when it is their own people on the receiving end.

If you believed all that Axis propagandists say, you would be forced to conclude that German cities are formed almost exclusively of schools, churches, hospitals and orphan asylums. For that is all they ever admit were damaged by RAF raids.

Now, in their usual habit of mimicry, the Japs complain that General Doolittle's raiders bombed hospitals and machine-gunned school children.

Really, it is not necessary to pay any heed to such Axis mouthings, beyond mentioning that, if they violate the accepted rules of war for treatment of prisoners, we can do exactly the same.

Time Is Whose Ally?

We of the Allied Nations have been accustomed to believe that, as time passes, our victory in the world war must become more certain. This is based upon the idea that, while our fighting strength is increasing, that of the Axis, particularly Germany and Italy, is on the wane.

We shall, however, but deceive ourselves if we complacently count on time as an ally in the war in the Pacific. It is probably more true that time in that arena of conflict fights for the Japanese than that it fights for us.

To be true, our strength in the Pacific, in men and ships and planes, will increase as the months pass. But, at the same time, there can be no doubt but that Japanese strength will likewise increase, maybe at faster pace than our own.

It must always be remembered the Japanese have conquered vast areas of territory which contain some of the greatest deposits of materials essential for modern war. In Malaya, Burma, Sumatra, the Dutch East Indies, Borneo, the Philippines are some of the world's greatest supplies of gasoline, oil, tin, rubber and many other war materials.

As time goes on, while we are powerless to dislodge the forces of Nippon from these conquered lands, they will undoubtedly create conditions under which they may exploit these resources for their own war machine. No man can say, today, how great is the supply of gasoline the Japanese are now taking from the oil fields of Borneo. Nor can we tell what rubber they are gathering in Malaya, what tin in Burma.

There is, moreover, an even greater danger to the Allied Nations which grows more menacing with every week the Japanese maintain their occupation of these vast areas of Oriental lands. That is the danger that the native populations may be totally won over to the Japanese.

Tokyo has proclaimed this as a war to drive the white man from the east. Tokyo has done quite a good job in that respect to date, we must admit. Do not doubt their propaganda is working overtime to spread the doctrine of Oriental supremacy among the natives of all the captured lands. It is alluring doctrine. We cannot expect anything else but that a large proportion of these native peoples will listen to it and approve. Unless we can destroy, quickly, Japanese prestige and Japanese influence, we may well find ourselves arrayed against a force that includes not Japan alone, but a large proportion of the entire Orient.

If the Japanese, by propaganda, can win over the sympathy of the peoples of the lands they now occupy, we may face, someday, a force of tens of millions of fanatic Oriental soldiers, armed and equipped with materials taken out of the lands which we, or our allies, once controlled.

Time, in the Pacific, fights against us. The issue will be decided upon our ability to defeat Japan before she has time to organize the natural and human resources of her conquered lands against us.

Judge John D. Humphries

There have been few jurists in Atlanta better known, more widely respected or more universally beloved than Judge John D. Humphries, senior jurist of the Fulton superior court. His death on Thursday will bring sorrow and regret to thousands.

Judge Humphries was, almost, a native of Atlanta, having been born near Hapeville. He was serving as mayor of Hapeville when, in 1919, he was elected to the superior court bench.

He was an active churchman, having taught a men's Sunday school class for years. He was a lifelong student and the author of numerous articles dealing with subjects pertaining to the courts and the law.

He was almost as well known for his avocation, astronomy, as for his vocation, the law. He was the leading amateur in astronomical study and observation in this section and his private observatory at his home was a familiar place to all lovers of that science of the universe.

Tift county's quota for the scrap collection is all the scrap that Tift county has—no more, no less. It is only an estimate that we should be able to gather an average of 100 pounds per person. Any scrap we have that does not go into the war effort is slacker scrap. We don't want that kind.

LIBERIAN SIGNIFICANCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Back of the announcement that American troops have landed in Liberia, on the hump of Africa, may be a war development.

It has all the earmarks of being the forerunner of the long awaited second front.

The section of Africa where our troops have landed is a long ways from Europe, but it is within striking distance of the vitally important Libyan battle area. Competent military authorities regard the move as the beginning of a secret Allied concert operation to chase the Germans and Italians out of Africa, over French and Spanish possessions bordering on the Mediterranean, and then strike a blow at Italy designed to knock her out of the war.

According to this thesis, the second front would be opened through the Mediterranean, rather than as a frontal attack on strongly fortified areas of Nazi-occupied western Europe.

Italy is reported to be ripe for an Allied operation of the kind. The Italians have long since lost their enthusiasm for the war. Many of our best military heads are said to feel that it would be a pushover for our forces if we could gain command of North African positions from which an invasion could be launched.

Il Duce's domain would be a pushover for our forces, subject, of course, to some molestation by local prosecutors, most of whom, however, will be of the party in power and thus political partners of the goons and not likely to trouble them much. Moreover, the local prosecutors take their law from the supreme court and they would not want to prosecute a goon for extortion, as such. Under a state law, knowing that the supreme court, speaking through Justice

Bynes, has sanctioned and sanctified the same thing under the definition of legitimate union activity and under another law.

How does this opinion constitute a license to a Brown Shirt army?

Well, this is how: If a gang calling itself a union, as in the teamsters case, has a right to stick you up on the road when you are delivering a load of produce and take your tribute without offering to work for the money, as Justice Bynes argued, then the teamsters did, what is to prevent other gangs from adopting the same racket under the same immunity everywhere. Why should they work for a living or for the war?

Suppose you are running a little shop or a store.

Along comes a member of the gang and says he wants $10 a day from you. You say nothing doing, so he comes back with some more of the gang and beats you up, so you pay and pass the cost on to your customers throughout increased prices. Certainly you have local laws against assault and robbery, but remember that this gang is a union and that the supreme court has held that Congress recognizes this kind of doing as legitimate activity.

Did the teamsters really beat up people?

Let Justice Bynes answer that:

"There was sufficient evidence," he said, "to warrant a finding that the defendants . . . did use violence and threats to obtain money from the owners of each truck entering New York.

Did they refuse to work for the money?

He answers that question, too, in these words:

"In several cases, the jury could have found that the defendants refused to work for the money when asked to do so."

Chief Justice Stone, dissenting, said:

"There is abundant evidence from which the jury could have concluded that . . . the payments were made . . . to purchase immunity from the violence of the respondents and for no other reason; and that this was the end knowingly sought by respondents," meaning the defendant teamsters, many of whom were not working, all but common-low-down criminals.

"Blind Tom's case was the talk of all the country about, even when he was very young, and many were the visitors to the Bethune home to see and hear this wonderful little blind boy whose intellect was such as to amaze all, if not all, common laborers.

"The Bethunes were not the kind of people who would care to deliver the goods. And the funny part of it is these old guys are getting top wages, too."

However, to the main subject, Mr. Patterson's letter is really about "Blind Tom," that famed Negro musician who played before great audiences in this country and in Europe more than half a century ago. It was inspired by a letter which appeared in the "Pulse of the Public" column some days ago, asking for information about Blind Tom. The writer of that first letter was Welborn Victor Jenkins, himself a Negro, who is engaged in writing a biography of Blind Tom. If he sees this column, it is suggested he write to Mr. Patterson for further information.

MOVED TO Columbus.

The Bethune family moved to Columbus, Ga., about the close of the War Between the States. I lived just a block from their home and went to school with the Bethunes, who were the grandsons of the Mr. Bethune who owned Tom. The Mr. Bethune I knew was a tall, dignified old gentleman, every inch the true southern gentleman and it would strike me as being most probable that he would be just the type to have made some sort of record of Blind Tom's case. Of course, he is dead now, but I am sure that some or many of his family are yet alive and that they might furnish many interesting facts regarding the interesting person of whom Jenkins intends to write. I feel sure that if he searched the records of the books in the Chattooga county courthouse he can find the facts pertaining to his father. And doubtless Muscogee county's books of record will give much of value.

"The old Bethune plantation is now a part of Fort Benning and belongs to the U. S. government and thousands of our soldiers are being trained over the very spots where Blind Tom spent his earlier years.

Dudley Glass

Enthusiast of this share-the-car movement called up to ask how many people I bring to town in my car every morning. She made me feel so ashamed!

Only regret I could make was: "What car?" Because, with the tire and gasoline situation being what it is, the car stays at home and I ride the trackless trolley standing up. I have become so accustomed to standing and holding on to the metal post that a few days ago I found myself still standing and holding with only one man and two women in the vehicle. One of them was an acquaintance, who gave me the chilley eye. I released my clutch on the post and went over to explain that I had been concentrating so intently on a column idea that I had virtually hypnotized myself.

"What do you mean?" he asked. Which wasn't a bit nice of him. Because I had no answer ready. Maybe this is it though it didn't arrive until four minutes ago.

My brag is that I raised him from a pup—by printing his sometimes good stuff in this column. After I gave him national fame he started selling stuff to the Saturday Evening Post, which is more than I could ever do. But does he split with me? I can't even bum a cigarette off him. He smokes a pipe.

This time I announce that Ollie has achieved international recognition. A London publishing firm has cabled him an offer for the British right to his four-line Post poem entitled "Arms and the Woman." The firm offers "ten and six," which, translated as 10 shillings and sixpence, figures out about three bucks. The cablegram probably cost three times that.

Needless to say, Mr. Reeves accepted the offer with alacrity, hurrying down to Western Union without waiting to shave, and expending cash money on a cabled reply. He figures he will net somewhere around 37 cents on the deal.

Still, there is yet hope for a fortune. Ollie has persistently held on to the movie rights.

O Righteous Judges!

Georgia court of appeals has held that an indictment against a man for involuntary manslaughter is not voided because some court clerk spelled the names of three grand jurors wrong.

One of Dickens' characters declared that "the law is an ass," an opinion with which millions have agreed. But maybe the law is learning something.

There have been cases where a mislabeled comma or the lack of one has meant the difference between life and death for a defendant. Bad punctuation has voided many a will.

But it does seem to a layman that the point at issue is whether the prisoner at the bar killed the other chap or didn't. Or whether he stole the jewels or didn't. So it is refreshing and gratifying to learn that our court of appeals doesn't think bad spelling should obstruct the course of justice.

Negro preacher, one of the oldtimers, was holding forth to a small congregation on a Marietta street sidewalk yesterday.

"I make up my preachin' as I go along," he said.

"Don't you use notes?" inquired a listener.

"No, suh! I used to try to use notes, but not now. I'd rather have a cash dime in the hat."

Albany Herald gives editorial thanks to the fine work of the Negro citizens of Dougherty county in the big drive for metal scrap. They rivaled the white population. It was a fine opportunity for them and they rose to it.

The average Negro citizen cannot afford to invest heavily in war stamps or bonds. He has mighty little spare cash.

But he and his family know where scrap metal can be found and can contribute time and energy and willingness to the cause. From what I hear the Negro population of Fulton has done its full share.

into this share-the-car movement, if I can borrow our car.

Because I owe 983 rides to town to some seven or eight neighbors and acquaintances in my section of Fulton county, Buckhead district. I've kept count and endeavored to keep a list of my creditors.

They are folk whose business requires them to drive to town. And they are the salt of the earth, as the saying is. They furnish transportation and in return I provide conversation, in copious quantities. But I think the balance is in their favor.

Some day, when I have acquired a tank full of gas I'm going to get up early and call these good Samaritans and tell them to put their hats on because I'm coming around to take them to town. And what's more, if they'll give me notes on their quitting time I'll call and pick them up for the return trip.

They'll probably say they'd rather drive their own cars because they need them in their business. But, at least, it will be a gesture, won't it?

Going Places.

This is a pat on the back for myself as far around on my back as I can reach. There's a spot between the shoulderblades—but I'm drifting into anatomy.

Really it's about Ollie Reeves.

Cancer Control Workers To Be Honored Here

24 Georgia Women Will Be Cited for Service in Counties.

Twenty-four Georgia women whose outstanding activities in cancer control education have put their counties in the A-1 bracket this year, will be cited for exemplary service at a statewide meeting in Atlanta today.

The awards will be presented at a "recognition dinner" tonight, Mrs. H. B. Richele, of Athens, state commander of the women's field army, American Society for Cancer Control, said.

Dr. Arthur B. Stott, dean of Columbian University's School of Pathology; Dr. W. J. Murphy and Mrs. Leo Howard, of Savannah, will be the principal speakers.

Women to be given special recognition for their work are: Mrs. A. M. Cason, of Ellaville; Mrs. W. E. Simmons, of Metter; Mrs. J. W. Daniel, of Claxton; Mrs. Julian Peterson, of Ailey; Mrs. Price Hall, of Newton; Mrs. J. M. Clements, of Edisto; Mrs. J. W. Barnett, of Albany; Mrs. I. L. Shield, of Columbus; Mrs. J. W. ATHENS OAK NOT ONLY TREE THAT OWNED SELF

Editor, Constitution: When a story appeared in The Constitution recently about the death of the world famous old oak tree at Athens, it said it was the only tree in the universe that owned itself. This is not true, for here at Balsam we have a young white oak tree that owns the land upon which it grows for a radius of 30 feet from the center of the tree in all directions, according to a deed in the Jackson county courthouse.

This young oak was dedicated to the memory of George Washington on the 200th anniversary of his birth, by the late Joseph Key Kenny, prominent landowner at Balsam. The tree is affectionately known at Balsam and in Waynesville six miles away, as the George Washington tree.

Out of respect for Mr. Kenny, we wish you would correct the story that no other tree in the universe owns itself. Our tree may not be as famous or as old, but we love our George Washington tree just as much as the Athens' folk loved theirs. Besides, our tree is a tree with a future, a goin'-to-be while the Athens' oak is a has-been.

DO TAXES PUT LOAD ON "WHITE COLLAR" CLASS?

Editor, Constitution: Present tax legislation places terrific squeeze in the middle or "white collar" class, and unless something is done it will only become more severe. I do not believe the framers of the tax bill intended to overly soak our white collar class, but they did, probably because facts were overlooked.

It is published that $48,000,000 will be earned annually that cannot be spent. Not one dime of this accrues to the white collar man. Conversely, his earnings are virtually the same, or in many cases much less, since a good percentage are on bonus or commissions, which have been drastically cut. Yet, he is supposed to pay on his mortgage, keep up insurance, face materially increased daily living costs, and pay what amounts to exorbitant taxes (for him).

A man formerly making $2,500 yearly now gets less than $2,000 after increased living expenses and taxes, while on making $5,000 will actually get less than $4,000, and the $10,000 man will emerge with about $7,500.

In numbers this class is larger than the farming class, and second only to the wage earners and often times referred to as the backbone of the community.

We can anticipate still more tax in '43 and the future, which will mean no car, no vacation, no college for the children, and a drastically reduced insurance program and possibly mortgage foreclosure. Wages have been materially increased. They not only have unions, but a War Labor Board to see that wages are increased proportionate to increased living costs. Labor has a "block" the farmers have a "block" and unless the middle or white collar class gets a "block" their future existence is questionable.

Of course, taxes are vitally necessary. They gladly pay their part, but do not want to be imposed upon unnecessarily.

To raise big taxes why not take 50% of this $48,000,000 unspendable, put on a sales or spending tax, plus a tax at the source, and thus emerge from this conflict with little or no national debt.

Some wage earners in higher or lower brackets spend their wages by or before they get them. How will taxes be collected from them?

Or, maybe the government will ask employers of middle or white-collared salary earners to make raises immediately to cover these exorbitant living and tax costs.

In closing, a wag earner may now make $5,000 annually and taxes cut this to $4,200, and living costs cut it further, he still makes some 50 per cent more than he did a few short years ago. However, labor unions are siphoning off millions of this, and it may be the idea to confiscate the major portion of said millions for taxes.

Cathedral Ties

presented today at

Muse

This year, as usual, when the first bells of Christmas begin to tinkle, we present these pure silk ties in exquisite designs! From the Rose Window of the renowned Cathedral of Rheims come the art conceptions of the lustrous tie we sketched above, but other ties, equally beautiful, represent in miniature:

- Motifs from Doshallas PRICELESS SHAWSL woven in the vale of Kashmir, now in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.
- Motifs from ancient Chinese Symbols in colors used by the Chinese on their pure silks.
- Designs from 16th century Persian Compartment Rugs.

Public Asked To Keep Trash Out of Street

Co-operation Sought as City Trucks Are Unable To Collect Refuse.

Public co-operation in the discontinuation of collection of fall leaves, shrubbery trimmings and other yard refuse was urged yesterday by H. J. Cates, chief of the city sanitary department.

Pointing out that 10 trucks, which last year collected about 17,000 truck loads of yard rubbish, have been discontinued to meet demands of OPA that the department's mileage be cut 40 per cent to save tires, Cates said it is impossible for the city to make such collections and that property owners must dispose of that type of rubbish themselves.

"We ask the co-operation of citizens in not sweeping yard debris from yards, driveways or sidewalks into the streets," Cates emphasized. "Leaves naturally falling into the streets will be removed as rapidly as the department's equipment will allow, but it is impossible to remove rubbish collected on private property."

"Leaves raked up and piled in a corner of the yard soon become a good source of excellent fertilizer. In asking citizens to take care of their own yard rubbish we are not seeking more from them than is required by other large cities. This must be done if regular garbage collections are to be maintained."

The department discontinued collection of yard rubbish October 5.

Damon Gause Awarded DSC By MacArthur

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Friday, Oct. 23.—(P)—General MacArthur today awarded the Distinguished Service Cross to two officers who escaped from the Philippines and made their way to Australia by foot and small boat on a perilous 159-day journey.

The men honored were Captains Damon J. Gause, of Winder, Ga., and William Lloyd Osborne, of Los Angeles, whose safe arrival in Australia was announced four days ago.

(The story of the arrival of the two men in Australia referred to Gause as a first lieutenant.)

Nazi Day Raiders Kill 22 in Britain

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(P)—Twenty-two persons were killed today when Nazi day raiders, striking from the protection of cloud cover, attacked two villages in East Anglia and southwest England.

Bren gunners climbed to rooftops in one town to protect rescue workers against a raid by what were believed to have been four German Focke-Wulf 190's.

The Germans reportedly used a new bouncing bomb, one landed on the beach, leaped water front buildings and wrecked a house 100 yards away. Others were said to have bounded 200 yards over a row of cottages.

One Out of Three Will Eventually Take Part in War Work

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Donald M. Nelson, War Production chairman, calculated today that more than one out of every three persons in America eventually will participate directly in the war program—through service in the armed forces, employment in war plants or performing work essential to the war effort, such as farming.

Canada Reveals Rioting Among Shackled Nazis

Prisoners, Guards Hurt in Clash at Camp at Bowmanville.

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—(P)—Minister of Defense Ralston announced tonight that both prisoners of war and Canadian guards were injured October 10 during a clash at the Bowmanville, Ontario, prison camp when the prisoners resisted shackling by the guards.

Ralston said there was mild resistance at one other camp, but no trouble in any of the 15 other prisoner-of-war camps.

In the fight at Bowmanville, he said, the prisoners barricaded themselves in their barracks. Four rifle shots were fired, three in the air and one toward the ground. The fourth shot wounded one.

At the same time, Nelson made it clear that further steps were contemplated, both to tighten up the civilian economy and maintain it at necessary levels. He said he had directed the staff of the War Production Board to make up a list of all the things that civilians need—clothing for individuals, machinery for mines, transportation for the community, and similar things—so that definite plans can be made to supply these needs.

"The things for the civilian in the wartime economy will be programmed and scheduled just like the Army and Navy."

Asked about civilian items which might not appear on such a list of essentials, he said the supply of such items would be "sloughed off." However, he added, "there aren't many more to be eliminated, as a matter of fact."

The high command said the Allied ground offensive, which in yesterday's communiqué placed the attackers at Eora, only nine miles south of Kokoda, now has made an unsuccessful attempt to capture by a thrust across the Owen Stanley range. The communiqué reported that the raid caused neither casualties nor damage.

While declining details, aides said that Russia had been promised all the equipment for a complete factory to make tires.

Jeffers said he had ordered a survey to locate the needed equipment, and he was about ready to send the list of needed articles, with prices and locations, to the treasury procurement division, which will make the actual purchases and shipment.

FARM INCOME.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 22.—Net income, including government payments, of farm operators in 1942 is expected to be 45 per cent above 1941, the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service says.

A first-class row is boiling up, said the Press Association, and Fleet street sources predicted hot questions would be put to Brendan Bracken, who controls both the BBC and press censorship, at an early sitting of commons.

On the asserted grounds of security, afternoon newspapers were forbidden to say that Smuts was speaking until he had finished, although American listeners had been hearing his voice for an hour.

The press censors were not informed of the broadcast direct from the hall where Smuts addressed members of parliament although it had been announced hours earlier. Then even the deniers were broadcasting facilities in the hall when the news agencies protested that Smuts was being heard on the air. The BBC's home listeners, however, did not hear the speech direct.

We'll Fulfill Promises To Russia, Jeffers Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(P)—Rubber Director William M. Jeffers promised today "imminent fulfillment of the United States commitment to the Russian government for tire manufacturing machinery."

While declining details, aides said that Russia had been promised all the equipment for a complete factory to make tires.

Jeffers said he had ordered a survey to locate the needed equipment, and he was about ready to send the list of needed articles, with prices and locations, to the treasury procurement division, which will make the actual purchases and shipment.

British Press Seeks Showdown Following Smuts Speech Ban

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(P)—The British press determined today to have a showdown in the house of commons over alleged favoritism in news releases to the British Broadcasting Corporation.

This was the direct aftermath of the censorship muddle yesterday which prevented British afternoon newspapers from printing the speech by South African Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, although it was being broadcast to the United States and South Africa.

The Press Association, whose position as a nonpartisan news service is representative of that of the Associated Press in the United States, took the unprecedented step of putting on its wires a denunciation of "typical lack of coordination" between government departments and charged discriminatory treatment of the press.

Allies and Japs Swap Air Raids In Pacific Area

Ground Forces Continue To Drive Enemy Back In Kokoda Sector.

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Friday, Oct. 23.—(P)—Japanese and Allied bombers exchanged blows, the Japs bombing Port Moresby and the Allies Buin while Allied ground forces were continuing to push the Japanese back toward Kokoda in the Owen Stanley mountains, the Allies' high command reported today.

The Allies' bomber attack on Buin, at the southern tip of Bougainville island in the Solomon Islands to the north of embattled Guadalcanal, was made at night on enemy shipping concentrations in the face of strong antiaircraft and searchlight opposition. Such shipping concentrations have been sought out by the Allies to weaken any impending assault upon the American-held Guadalcanal.

Tens tons of bombs were dropped by the planes, all of which located their targets at Buin and later returned safely to their bases.

Three Jap bombers made a night raid on Port Moresby, the southern New Guinea base of the Allies, which Japanese ground forces made an unsuccessful attempt to capture by a thrust across the Owen Stanley range. The communiqué reported that the raid caused neither casualties nor damage.

The high command said the Allies' ground offensive, which in yesterday's communiqué placed the attackers at Eora, only nine miles south of Kokoda, now has made an unsuccessful attempt to capture by a thrust across the Owen Stanley range. The communiqué reported that the raid caused neither casualties nor damage.

Premature Alarm Only Slip-Up in Surprise Blackout

A jittery south side resident almost threw a wrench into Atlanta's first surprise blackout yesterday by setting off an air raid warning siren 20 minutes ahead of time, George M. Phillips, area OCD director, asserted last night.

"We still haven't been able to find out who set off that siren," Phillips said.

"Every member of the civilian defense forces was told that an hour would elapse between the yellow signal and the red alarm."

Staff Stranded.

Apparently the southside worker got his signals mixed and touched off the sirens at the blue signal 1:40 o'clock instead of waiting for the red, Phillips explained.

Several members of the headquarters staff, caught in West End when the warning sounded, were forced to douse their car lights and cut their speed to 15 miles an hour. Street lights over the area went out at the signal and auxiliary policemen and firemen took their posts.

Outside of that slip-up, Phillips said the first complete surprise test turned out "very good." Members of the headquarters staff arrived at the control room within 25 minutes after the yellow signal. Some telephone operators showed up within six minutes, he added, and the latest operators arrived in 15 minutes.

More Operators.

The OCD director said he would ask the telephone company to arrange for more operators to be called in with the next yellow signal to prevent congestion in calling civilian defense workers. He said some congestion delayed calls in the Hemlock exchange.

Police Chief Hornsby had high praise for members of the civilian defense force and the general cooperation of the public.

"We had only about seven or eight reports of lights burning after the warning signal," Chief Hornsby said. "Most of these were business establishments, where the owner had forgotten to put out his lights before closing."

However, police records showed cases had been made against Mackey Klein, of 66 1-2 Whitehall street; Louis McIver, of 435 Irwin street; C. G. Milling, of 241 Spring street; R. E. Lipham, of 215 Ivy street; George Ayers, of 349 Peachtree street, and A. Fauber, of 23 Exchange place. Hearings will be held today and tomorrow.

Arrests this time fell far below the 21 cases made during the last blackout, Phillips explained. He attributed the sharp decrease to severe punishment meted out in court to convicted violators.

Lights Out.

In Hapeville, Police Chief T. D. Clonts said his men shot out lights in the Georgia Power Company substation because no company representative was on hand to turn out the lights. The plant is surrounded by a high barbed wire fence.

Civilian defense officials made complaints against "two or three business places," he added, but Hapeville has no blackout ordinance. Chief Clonts said he did not know whether the charges will be pressed.

Chief W. H. Tyler, in East Point, which has an ordinance like Atlanta's requiring outside switches for lights left burning at night, said cases were made against the East Point Ace Junk Company and Mose Brodin, merchant.

In College Park, Police Chief R. W. Moore said OCD officials had complaints against "only one or two business firms." College Park does not have a blackout ordinance.

Forgets Trouser.

W. L. McConnell, auxiliary police captain in College Park, said a number of local citizens failed to hear the warning sirens, but were awakened a few minutes later by dogs barking at air raid warrens.

One College Park warden, McConnell said, dressed hurriedly after he received the yellow signal.

Murray Man Fined

On Tire Theft Charge
Special to THE CONSTITUTION
CHATSWORTH, Ga., Oct. 22.—J. P. Grooms, 26, was fined $25 and the court costs yesterday by Judge John C. Mitchell, after he had entered a plea of guilty to the charge of theft of three automobile tires from the pile of scrap collected in Murray County during the current scrap drive.

According to some of the officials in charge of the scrap drive, Grooms had approached them Monday with a proposition of exchanging other used tires for some that had been collected during the scrap drive, and he was told that the exchange could not be made. A few hours later, R. P. Parson, local policeman, arrested Grooms as he was loading the tires into his automobile.

To give employment and to get employment . . . A Want Ad in The Constitution equally effective in both cases.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't let it go on. Do not wait about this. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's way of taking excess water and wastes out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If 1½ miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of power, giddiness, fainting, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning are also signs of something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's pills, used since 1880. They will help you. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poison waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Huiet Funds Paid in Person, Witnesses Say

Campaign Contributions Were 'Voluntary,' Cross Examination Shows.

Witnesses in the conspiracy trial of Ben T. Huiet, commissioner of campaign fund, and later gave a similar amount to Huiet personally. Another employee declared he sent half a month's salary, $105, to Huiet.

In cross-examination, witnesses declared their contributions were "voluntary." Jon Taliaferro, of Athens, testified his superior, Alfred Scoggins, in mentioning the campaign fund to him, had said

"that contributions were to be voluntary, but that they 'had better' be made. He said he gave $22.46 in October, after Huiet had been nominated without opposition in the September primary."

Purely Personal Chatter About Atlanta Debutantes

Editor's Note: This is the sixth of a series of sketches giving intimate glimpses into the lives of Atlanta debutantes. Banning all social functions in their honor, this season's buds have voted to concentrate on war and defense work, their efforts along this line to be revealed in this series.

By SALLY FORTH.

• • • BEVERLY ADAMS always has seemed to do more, and so it is easy to understand how she is able to continue her business career, and at the same time, take an active part in the war work program being carried out by this year's Debutante Club. At the time of her graduation from high school, Beverly received a college scholarship, but she elected to take a business course instead, and was soon employed by the Coca-Cola Company, where she is a valued employee.

Beverly is the daughter of Mrs. Harriet Adams, the former Harriet Bayly, of Clearwater, Fla., and the late James McLeod Adams, who was a prominent lawyer in Huntsville, Ala., and served with the AEF in France during the last war before establishing residence in Atlanta. Her brothers are Norman and Jimmie, the latter serving in the Army Air Force at Corsicana, Texas.

At North Fulton High school Beverly was always an outstanding student, and her popularity with both boys and girls was delineated when she won the title of "Most Popular Girl." She also was editor-in-chief of the North Fulton Annual, and treasurer of her sorority, Sigma Delta. Certainly these are an unusual number of honors to be conferred on one girl, but Beverly also won the cup for the most outstanding student.

Glossy black hair, dark-lashed hazel eyes, and an exquisite olive complexion, make up Beverly's unusual and striking appearance. She is fond of swimming and horseback riding; likes light classical music and swing, but she loves to dance best of all. Beverly has taken two extensive trips through the western states and Canada, and has been bitten by the "travel bug" to such a degree that she wants to make travel her hobby. However, she likes knitting, and has knitted lots of sweaters for British War Relief and the Red Cross, so Beverly has decided that for the duration her hobby will be knitting. Can you think of a better one?

• • • THE Women's Radio Guild will resume its meetings, after a summer lull, at a luncheon scheduled for 1:30 o'clock next Tuesday. Mrs. Albert Thornton, who heads British War Relief in Atlanta, was chosen by popular vote as the "Woman of the Month," and she will be honor guest at the luncheon meeting which will be held in the Yellow room of the Capital City Club.

Mrs. Thornton's selection for the honor is most timely and appropriate, for M. S. Henderson, the new British consul in Atlanta, will address the gathering. Lucy (Mrs. Robert H. Jr.) Jones, as president of the guild, will preside at the luncheon.

• • • MEMBERS of the Planters' Garden Club have a real treat in store for them when they assemble next Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Roy Minier on Argonne drive. For they will have the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Wimberly DeRenne, of Athens, and hearing her speak on "Herbs."

To those not interested in gardening (and they are in the minority), talk on herbs might seem a trifle dull. But those would have a change of opinion once they heard Augusta DeRenne discourse on the subject. Stunning to look at and delightful to know, she always injects into her talks her own sparkling personality and native wit.

An authority on herbs, Augusta is busily engaged in writing a book on their history, culture, etc. It is expected to come off the press at an early date, and it is safe to predict that it will meet with instant success.

During her stay Augusta will be the guest of her good friend, Delia (Mrs. M. Hines) Roberts, at her home on West Wesley road. A frequent "flying" visitor here, Augusta has a host of Atlanta friends who will entertain for her informally. Her last stay of any length was made the past April when she attended the Garden Club of Georgia convention. She is a member of the Ladies' Garden Club of Athens, the oldest garden club in America, and also of the Trustees' Garden Club of Savannah, where she formerly resided. The latter club is one of the three southern garden clubs affiliated with the Garden Club of America.

Augusta and Wimberly have made their home in Athens only for the past few years, having gone there at the time the famous DeRenne library, for which the latter is curator, was purchased by the University of Georgia. Their former Savannah home, Wormsloe Gardens, is one of the best known beauty spots in the south and is the DeRenne ancestral plantation.

• • • DO YOU KNOW? That in staid old Philadelphia the 1942 debutantes are making their formal bows at individual parties given in their honor by their parents? . . . That Lucy Bryan, of Reynolds; Jane Durham, of Atlanta, and Marguerite Logan, of Elberton, were Georgia's representatives in the class of 43 seniors who received their caps and gowns at the investiture service of founders' day recently at Mary Baldwin College in Staunton, Va.? . . . That some lucky person will win this handsome gray stallion from the Rabun Gap Junior Guild at Rabun Gap Club's Horse Show tomorrow at North Fulton Park? . . . That there is a sign in the Filter Center which says, "Tis better to be bored than bombed?" . . . That Margaret Tinkler, a popular Atlanta attending DePauw University, has been selected to represent Mason residence hall at the university on the freshman advisory council? . . . That Dorothy Giddings will not make her debut this year because she will let nothing interfere with her studies at the University of Georgia?

Miss Stewart To Speak.

Miss Reba Stewart, Baptist missionary to China, who recently returned to this country on the exchange ship Gripsholm, will speak at the vesper and morning services of the annual fall camp of Baptist Young Women's Auxiliary, to be held at Camp Highland on October 24 and 25.

Other speakers will be Mrs. Ralph Smith, young people's superintendent of Atlanta B. W. M. U., and Miss Thelma Sorrow, Kirkwood Y. W. A. Miss Margaret Perrin and Miss June Biggers will direct the music on the programs. Camp activities will be under the direction of Mrs. R. L. Lancaster, associational counselor, and Miss Catherine Nolan, associational president.

Health Comes First In Acquiring Glamor

By Ida Jean Kain.

Guess where the glamor girls are these days . . . in our defense industries! Our toiling Tilles who make plane instruments, ship parts and guns look as though they might have been chosen for their good looks. But health is the first requirement. The good looks go with it.

You would be surprised at the percentage who have such good figures and postures that they could walk into modelling jobs. On inquiry, I found that many of them have walked out on such careers in favor of our streamlined factories and war production.

In work demanding precision, health comes first on the list of qualifications. Every girl who applies must be able to pass a rigorous physical examination. If she is extremely above or under what her normal weight should be that stops her. An extreme in weight means she is not as healthy or as efficient as she should be.

The personnel consultant I talked with told me that in Russia, where she made a special study of labor problems, the women in factories are so health-minded that they start the workday with 20 to 30 minutes of exercise. The idea is efficiency; but the workout also keeps them trim, and the knowledge that they look well further adds to their efficiency.

The looks factor is so important that in England the hostels for women in war workers operate beauty parlors to enable them to keep well groomed.

Over here, we are just beginning the movement of concern to industry. But at this point, one of the country's most impressive arrangements have been made for the girls to take posture corrections at one of the exclusive salons. They are encouraged to use hand cream to keep their hands lovely no matter how hard the work they do. And the uniforms and hats worn for protection while working are designed with an eye to style as well as utility. By the way, here is a tip on fatigues: It is specified that their clothes be comfortably loose as tight clothing is tiring. The shoes they wear—and they wear them of their own accord—have flat heels to further alleviate fatigue.

We are all in this war. You may not be doing anything quite as exciting as these girls who are building ships and plane parts. But what you do is important and how well you do it depends on how well you are. If your vitality is not up to par, why not have a physical examination? Then put yourself on a program for fitness. You'll discover that feeling fit makes you enjoy working harder.

Send large, stamped return envelope for "Posture Makes the Figure"—the same exercises increase your efficiency.

MRS. JORDAN S. WILSON JR.
Mrs. Wilson is the former Miss Edna Gerlach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Gerlach, whose marriage to Private Jordan S. Wilson Jr., of the United States Marine Corps, was a recent event.

Man Plays Safe Game By Dating Married Women

By Dixie George.

I have been married for nine years, having married when I was 16. I know now that this was too young to have become a wife. Four years ago I met a 28-year-old man who is not married. We dated for two years, but during the past year we have not seen each other so much. I know that he has been going with another married woman and I stay away nights worrying whether it is she or I whom he loves best.

I do not love my husband and for that reason I have been going with this man and trying to recapture some of the love and romance I have missed in my life. He is so sweet to me and tells me he loves me better than anyone else in the world. I write him all the time because he asks me to. But he never answers my letters. He lives in a nearby town. My husband and I still live together and is true to me, but I love this man. I know he goes with the other woman although I think, as do my friends, that he loves me best. What do you think?

WANT TO KNOW.
To be perfectly honest with you, I do not think this man cares for either of you. Both of you are married, and if there is any running around to do, you should do so with your husbands. This man whom you mention is the type who wants to have these casual, off-the-record affairs with married women without having to assume the responsibilities of a husband and married life. Of course he did not answer your letters, he was too smart for that. How did he know but what your husband might see them? He knew that anything that would be put down in black and white would be used against him sometimes, for he wrote with one eye on the jury box. You made no reference to it, but I will wager that in the four years you have gone with him he did not once mention the desire for you to get a divorce so you could marry. Maybe you did marry young, and maybe you did lose out on romance, but there are two things for you to remember: either stay with your husband and be happy, or get a divorce and leave him.

UNCERTAIN GIRL IS FOOLISH TO MARRY.
Dear Dixie:

A year ago I met him and fell in love with him. We did not go together much, and time went on, and I began going with a man whom I have known for four years. So he told me he loved me and asked me to marry him. I accepted, for I thought by this time I had forgotten the other one. But now I know that when one has his or her real love there is no feeling like it for anyone else. Of course I have had two or three love affairs since, but who hasn't? I am old enough to realize these things and I know now that I do not love the man whom I promised to marry.

GREEN EYES.

Break your engagement to this man and stay going out with these men who are seeing you for dates. Get into circulation again. Nothing will help you if you stay at home and mope alone. It will not only be unfair to yourself, but certainly to this man, for you to marry him feeling as you do about the other one. Neither of you will be happy, and it will be only a life of unhappiness for all concerned.

Your Horoscope For Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS.

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—Before 11:45 p. m. you are likely to feel impulsive, nervous and irritable, therefore, your will have to guard against a feeling of touchiness.

April 20-May 18 (TAURUS)—You are apt to feel life is going in an uneven tone today, for you will encounter surprises, unexpected happenings and difficulties prepared for not carrying out your plans as you first intended.

May 19-June 17 (GEMINI)—The period of early morning and until 7:08 a. m. suggests that you avoid haste and follow your sense of caution.

June 18-July 22 (CANCER)—Before 10:50 a. m. pay attention to only ordinary and routine matters. The remainder of the day you can give full rein to your activities.

July 23-August 21 (LEO)—During the day until 7 p. m. influences abound that often bring elaborate schemes into fruition. Use care in contract, communication.

August 22-September 22 (VIRGO)—Activities which require teamwork and affection, and where you find feeling and emotions strike a light will be slightly favored before 11:00 a. m.

September 23-October 21 (LIBRA)—You should go ahead with courage and confidence, when you are advancing your ambitions, but don't waste time in frivolities.

October 22-November 20 (SCORPIO)

Your energies and ambition will be strong today and until 8:36 p. m.

you will have more energy and progress or want to be in a hurry. Therefore you are likely to rush things too quickly to their ultimate conclusion.

November 21-December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—Combine with your family duties today, but do not undertake additional responsibilities.

December 22-January 19 (CAPRICORN)—Meet any social engagements with public, political matters, literary matters, dealings with publishers, editors and reporters. A good day for asking favors.

January 20-February 18 (AQUARIUS)

The entire day does not especially favor beginnings of new and important undertakings. The most favorable vibrations of the day operate between 11:33 a. m. and 3:37 p. m.

February 19-March 20 (PIRUS)

Evening until 10:30 p. m. may be an exciting time, when sudden demands may be made with startling force. Be discreet and self-control for changes or flare-ups in speech or action are not favored.

War Gives the Child Stars Biggest Break in Hollywood

By Harold Heffernan.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 22.—Sights and sound:

Kids are getting the breaks in Hollywood today as never before. Not since Jackie Cooper was in his heyday and Shirley Temple was in hers have the times been so ripe for gifted juveniles, and, like everything else these days, the reason is the war. The number of young men now shouldering arms has created openings for the moppets, the accent is on youth in wartime entertainment, and in addition, the recent crop of young starlets has grown up.

Deanna and Shirley, Mickey and Judy, Jane Withers, Gloria Jean, Susanna Foster, Freddie Bartholomew, Bonita Granville and others are big boys and girls now. Even Bobby Breen, whose 12-year-old warblings enchanted many and irritated others, is back doing a picture (without song) at Republic.

If this starts a rush of eager mothers with offsprings "who ought to be in pictures," why the fault is that of the casting directors. Let it be known that they need more child stars and prove it by casting more children than ever before in pictures. But with current and fast-approaching restrictions, Hollywood fears no overflow of mothers and their precocious tots flocking here from eastern points.

In previewing "Now Voyager" and "Watch on the Rhine," we note Bette Davis (who had yet to test bed-time series in films) virtually surrounded by children both productions. The youngsters are all competent players, too, and their parts are so good that any one is likely to emerge as a personality in his own right.

A Pled Piper-like march on Hollywood is already in progress.

When Ann Todd, 10 years old, sprained an ankle and had to be replaced in "The Black Swan," word of the accident immediately brought 200 telephone calls and 100 youngsters in person to try out for the part.

Walter McEwen at Paramount recently announced that his new budget picture policy would feature children. He said that the studio was definitely in the market for fresh, young faces—for youthful talent that might be developed in later material.

Another Hollywood cycle development is creating an audience for youthful players. That is the increasing number of films featuring big name bands. These bands attract so many young people into movie houses that it's considered sound and reasonable policy to show young people on the screen, jitterbugging, preferably.

At M-G-M casting directors are looking for a likely boy with talent to play in "Lassie Comes Home," and at 20th-Fox, Roddy McDowall is starred in "My Friend Flicka," story of a boy and a horse.

A sensational picture theft has just been registered by a five-year-old in "Journey for Margaret," the principal victim being Laraine Day, its nominal star. Mickey Rooney has terrific competition from a five-year-old who plays his younger brother in "The Human Comedy."

At Universal, emphasis is being placed on the children's hour with new film "Corin Sun Collins," 15, is back at work in one called "Hep To Love," Donald O'Connor, 17, under a term contract, is in the same picture, and Gloria Jean and Freddie Bartholomew head the cast of "On the Beam," which puts the kids right out in front again.

It wasn't so bad during vacation time, but now with the school bell ringing on every lot, production is often seriously hampered.

Children under 18 who have not been graduated from high school are permitted by state law to work only four hours a day and must attend school for a minimum of three hours.

Warner Brothers' "Yankee Doodle Dandy" ran up an extra cost of $50,000 or more because one of its stars, Joan Leslie, was under age and had to go to school every day. Director Michael Curtiz still raves even though this took place on that grueling day when schoolmarm Lois Horne stopped his biggest production number because Joan had to do her algebra. More than 150 extras were sent home in the middle of the day and production suspended.

MY DAY: Scottie Pictures For Christmas Gifts

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY, Wednesday.—The artists are exhibiting again all around Washington square, and they couldn't have more favorable conditions. I haven't any more space to hang even the smallest print or picture, but I can never resist wandering around and looking at them. If I didn't have several put away, ready to send as gifts to my friends, I am afraid I could not help buying one or two scenes which caught my eye yesterday.

For some time I have had a collection of black and white pictures of Scottie dogs done by some well-known artists. Pictures of this personable Scotch canine decorate one wall of my White House sitting room.

When in Seattle I found that my granddaughter was very fond of one of these pictures which hangs in her own room. I asked her if she would like my collection and discovered I had made a most welcome suggestion. I know now of some Christmas and birthday presents that can accomplish savings stamps during these war years without entailing any added expenditures. I am trying to finish what little shopping has to be done this year for the holiday season and winter months. At the same time I manage to see a good many people who have been writing me for appointments "when I come to New York." These "next times" often so crowded that I frequently find months go by before I get around to making the promised engagements.

Some of you may have read the article on the work that is being done in Geneva, Switzerland, for the refugee children. In groups of 10,000 they are taken in every three months, fed and housed and saved from permanent ill health and then returned to occupied France, Belgium, Greece or Yugoslavia. Sometimes they go to individual families, sometimes they live in hotels.

In addition to housing and feeding, many of these children have to be clothed and given medical attention. More important than anything else, whether they are in homes or hostels, is the fact that they are with people who love them and want to help them. For this work the rest of the world owes the Swiss people a debt of gratitude, for these saved children will be of infinite value in rebuilding Europe in the future.

It is true that some of the German children, cared for in Norway after the war, have repaid their kind hosts with treachery, but that should not deter us from making the kindly act. It should confirm our determination not to allow again the conditions which have given us a second world war.

Good Digestion Begins in the Mouth

By Dr. William Brady.

The saliva (wrote Boerhaave, Dutch physician in the early 18th century) constantly distills into the mouth into the stomach; and from the mouth into the stomach. It very much resembles the gastric juice in the stomach; and its importance in digestion may be imagined.

The chyle (digestive fluid in the stomach) without this fluid is depraved, and the blood is vitiated for want of it. Once tried (wrote Boerhaave) an experiment upon myself, by spitting out all my saliva. The consequence was, I lost my appetite.

It is pertinent to mention that Wright's textbook does not recognize mastication or even mention it, whereas Howell's textbook devotes a page to it, and old Dr. Boerhaave evidently sensed that it had something to do with good digestion.

Frankly, friends, I'm trying to lead you into your dentist's office. Without good teeth you cannot masticate your food as efficiently as you should. Without good mastication you cannot digest your food well . . . you should. With a complete equipment of teeth—your own or your dentist's—you should enjoy good digestion. That's why I say the first of the seven keys to vital is "SAVE YOUR TEETH."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Gray Hair.

There have been different announcements about a vitamin that prevents hair from turning gray prematurely, and we are confused. (Mrs. R. J. F.)

Answer: That effect has been ascribed to two different factors of the B complex, para-aminobenzoic acid and pantothenic acid or calcium pantothenate. The latter is perhaps the more essential anti-gray hair factor, but in any case the most satisfactory results are obtained from taking the entire amount of calcium pantothenate. # All in the Game

A Day in the City

The University of Georgia Bulldogs may be No. 1, 2 or 3 in the nation, in the eyes of the football experts, but with certain of the railroads they don't have any kind of rating, according to events of yesterday and previous happenings this season. (There is now a government order that trains which can move on time must move.)

The Georgia squad rode to Atlanta from Athens early yesterday on the Seaboard, which seldom is on time. It missed connections with the Cincinnati train and Georgia was left stranded in Atlanta until evening.

"We could have come over in our cars but we wanted to co-operate 100 per cent in the war effort and not use rubber needlessly," Coach Wallace Butts pointed out afterwards.

Ten minutes before the Seaboard pulled in, the L. & N.'s Cincinnati train pulled out of the Terminal station, and when the Bulldogs arrived they discovered they were stranded in Atlanta for the day.

"A train official explained to me he'd be fired if the train didn't leave, regardless of the connection with the New York train we were riding. Maybe 10 minutes is that important, I don't know. Every train we've ridden this year has been anywhere from an hour or more late. Anyway, I'm sure no one found crowded conditions on that train. We had tickets for about 40 day coach seats," Butts declared.

The Bulldog squad retired to the Ansley hotel and then poured into the Rialto to see the morning showing of "Pride of the Yankees," life of Lou Gehrig and a truly great picture.

The boys worked out in the afternoon at Georgia Tech. And last night they boarded a Pullman, for the first time this season, and slept to Cincinnati.

On second thought, maybe it's just as well they missed their train. They avoided an all-day ride and had a work-out, too.

Isn't often the Orange Bowl champions get the opportunity to spend a day in the city, and then, as a happy climax, they knew once again the luxury of a Pullman car.

Rough Treatment It is easy to appreciate Coach Butts' feelings about this certain railroad, however. Georgia had day coaches to Louisville, Ky., for the Kentucky game, which turned out to be a grueling struggle which Georgia won in the last few minutes of play.

The little round man doesn't sleep a couple of nights before a game, and when it was all over the reaction rather deadening. He was worn out.

Well, Georgia cheerfully accepted an all-night day coach ride back to Athens. The boys didn't mind it a bit.

A good friend of Wally's had a Pullman berth, and along toward the witching hour of midnight, the Georgia coach thought he'd like to stretch out for a few minutes. He walked back to the car and crawled in the friend's lower berth.

Very soon a Pullman conductor came by and shook him.

"Where's your ticket, fellow? You can't stay in here."

And so Coach Butts had to go back to the day coach—in spite of his friend having bought and paid for the Pullman berth he just wanted to use for a couple of winks.

No common sense, no courtesy, no judgment was evinced here.

Game of the Day As far as the east is concerned, Georgia Tech's dry-land engagement with the U. S. Naval Academy eleven is THE game of the day on Saturday.

Army-Navy Game Ordered Shifted to Annapolis

Tech Leaves For Navy Tilt; Jordan Ailing

Guard Nursing Injury to Back, But Expects To See Service.

By JACK TROY.

Constitution Sports Editor.
EN ROUTE TO ANNAPOLIS WITH GEORGIA TECH, Oct. 22. Coach Bill Alexander's chief worry is the unbeaten Rambling Wreck rolled toward Annapolis and the big engagement with Navy Sunday was an injury to Jack Jordan, star guard.

Suffering a back injury in Wednesday's scrimmage, Jordan was left in the training room under the care of Trainer Claude Bond. Trainer Bond believes Jordan will be able to play part of the game.

Fortunately, the blow Jordan received on his back caused only deep bruises. There was no dislocation or anything like that.

PLASTER RECOVERS.

Alterna-Captain Ralph Plaster, hard-hitting fullback, worked out all week in sweat clothes, because of a foot injury, but Coach Alexander expects to use him considerably. Plaster says the foot is just about healed and that he is available for full-time service.

The Rambling Wreck was unimpressive in workouts at Rose Bowl field during the week, but the boys are pep up over Saturday's clash with Navy. Paramount in their minds is keeping their victory string intact.

Tech is the favorite and the eastern visit has created unusual interest, particularly since the victory over Notre Dame.

RAZZLE DAZZLE LOOMS.

The Jackets may resort to a bit of razzle dazzle to fool the Midway since it is likely that any scout reports Navy has are somewhat sketchy.

Capering Clint Castleberry, freshman ace, and Pat McHugh will be turned loose. They've been standouts during the week. There will be a chance also for Davey Eldredge to show his stuff. David ran for a touchdown against Davidson, but was unlucky enough to have it called back.

A final workout will be held late tomorrow afternoon on Navy's field.

Auburn Meets Villanova in Night Contest

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 22. (P)—The Wildcats of Villanova, 33 strong, came to town today primed for tangle with the Bengaloes of Auburn tomorrow night before a probable 12,000 attendance.

The Pennsylvania Felines rated an official edge over the Tigers by virtue of a win over the Florida Gators last week after the Floridians stopped Auburn a week earlier.

Local dopes, however, recalling that Auburn plays better when ranked as the underdog, were laying odds of seven points that the Bengals would pull an upset win over the Cats.

Coch Clipper Smith, of Villanova, said his squad would work out tonight under the lights of Cramton Bowl, and it appeared likely that the Mississippi State squad, en route for a tilt with Florida, might work out at the same time.

Clemson Beats Carolina

Tigers Break 6-6 Deadlock For 18-6 Margin

Capacity Crowd of 20,500 Sees Gamecocks Fall at State Fair.

By DEL BOOTH.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 22.—(AP) Clemson College's Tigers defeated South Carolina's Gamecocks, 18-6, today by breaking a first-half deadlock with third and fourth period touchdowns.

A sweltering crowd of 22,000 State Fair game fans saw this 40th meeting of the rivals.

An alert Clemson team nullified a second period South Carolina lead set up by Ken Roskie's scoring smash from the two, when Red Stacey a few minutes later stepped over from the seven with Marion Butler's pass.

The Tigers stepped up their passing attack in the third and took a 12-6 lead, and Butler clinched the victory with a 54-yard touchdown jaunt as the final period opened.

The Gamecocks, despite several sustained drives with an unexpectedly powerful running attack, were never able to penetrate scoring territory in the last half.

Long kicks by Monty Byers and Butler put the Gamecocks back on their heels time and again. The two backs each quick-kicked for 60 yards to set South Carolina back within its 20-yard line on two occasions.

South Carolina's superior running game, which netted 10 first downs to six for the Tigers, and 167 net yards gained from scrimmage to 140 for Clemson was slow-ed frequently when passes failed to produce in the pinches. The Tigers, however, rang the gong with five out of eight passes being completed for 109 yards.

'Gators To Play Offensive Game

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Florida's Gators are out to play an offensive ball game here Saturday in their home-coming tilt with the Maroons of Mississippi State.

Head Coach Tom Lieb voiced a deep respect for Coach Allyn McKeen's grididers but also asserted that the Florida team should, by playing an all-out offensive game, be able to come out on the big end of the score.

Lieb didn't promise a victory but gave his boys better than an even chance. Blondie Black and his teammates.

The head mentor backed up his assertions by concentrating on his own offense rather than defense against Mississippi plays in the rough practice today.

Wildcats Polish Passing Attack

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 22.—(AP) If today's workout is any criterion, Kentucky may gamble heavily on passes in an attempt to score its first football victory over Alabama since 1922 when the two rivals clash here Saturday in the Wildcats' home-coming game.

Coach Al Kirwan not only had his ace pitcher, Phil Cutchin, flipping to Charley Kuhn and Carl Althaus, but called upon Kuhn to toss a number of passes.

Cutchin, Jesse Tunstall also heavily considered during the drill, with Wingmen Charley Eben and George Sengel on the receiving end.

Maroon Yearlings Tie Plainsmen

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Freshmen footballers from Auburn and Mississippi State battled to a 13-13 deadlock Wednesday night in a benefit game that attracted an estimated 15,000 fans.

All scoring was in the first half. Sonny Jones, elusive little tailback from Philadelphia, Miss., scored both State touchowns, one on a 98-yard return of a kickoff following an Auburn score, and the other on a 39-yard end sweep. Shuff converted after the second. Likewise Billy Harrell, halfback from Birmingham, scored twice for Auburn.

at least, to give a detailed explanation as to why it would be so different if Georgia Tech and Notre Dame played again. (He said last Saturday it was a different Notre Dame team.)

Tech gave Notre Dame a fine lashing with Coach Frank Leahy sitting there watching it and helpless to do anything about it. (There was no change in personnel Saturday, except Leahy was in a hospital at Rochester, Minn.)

Notre Dame changed teams at the end of the first quarter against Tech. Three minutes later, Coach Leahy had to rush the first team back into the game . . . and it wasn't enough.

Perhaps Husing is right; maybe it wouldn't be the same Notre Dame team. Tech has improved a lot since the game.

The Jackets are housed in Carvel Hall, across from the Naval Academy, and are ready for their return to big league competition.

RECKLESS RIDER—Raymond Davis, son of Sergeant George B. Davis, goes over the hurdles with Reckless. This pair will compete in the horse show Saturday at North Fulton park.

Decatur To Battle Gainesville Tonight

Canton Invades G. M. A. as Tech High and Boys' High Bees Tangle at Poncey Park.

Most of the local prep elevens will swing into action tonight, but only three games will be offered up for local consumption.

Decatur's Bulldogs will entertain a strong Gainesville High crew at the Decatur field in what should be the top attraction of the night. The other two games to be played locally are: Boys' High "B" vs. Tech High "B" team at Ponce de Leon, and Canton vs. G. M. A. at College Park. All these games are slated to start at 8 o'clock.

Out-of-town games will feature Hapeville against Marietta at Marietta; Fulton vs. LaGrange at LaGrange; West Fulton vs. Newnan at Newnan, and Richardson vs. Robert E. Lee at Thomaston.

BIG CROWD LOOMS.

The battle of the Tech and Boys' High Bees at Poncey is expected to be an interesting tussle and will probably d'aw its usual large crowd of Purple and Smithie followers who wish to see what kind of material is coming up for next year's teams.

The Tech High Bees are coached by Swede Phillips. In three starts they have emerged victorious twice, defeating West Fulton's "B" team, 12 to 0, and Hapeville, 32 to 0. Their setback was suffered at the hands of West Fulton's first team. The team is captained by Morris Harrison, a plunging fullback. Ray Garrett, the backfielder, is the team's leading scorer. Bill Strickland, a 205-pound tackle, Jacob Brooks and Al Lacour, a pair of fast guards, are other outstanding performers.

The Purple Bees have played only two games, losing to Spalding High, of Griffin, 19 to 0, and defeating G. M. A.'s "B" squad, 19 to 1. C. Spielberger, center, Paul Clever and Buck Doyal, halfbacks, are the mainstays on this club. Buck Doyal is an ace passer and kicker, while Clever is a speedster to the last notch for the Florida game and promises to keep the outstanding record made this year in giving up only 12 first downs.

G. M. A. FAVORED.

The Decatur-Gainesville tussle will be an affair, if comparable scores mean anything. Both these clubs tied North Fulton Bulldogs to a 0-0 decision, while Decatur tied them, 7 to 7. Allent Shelton, Decatur's ace passer and ball carrier, may give the home team a slight edge, if he has one of his good nights.

G. M. A. and Canton's skirmish may result in a fair, easy one for the College Park boys. Although their won and lost record is not impressive, G. M. A. has a promising outfit and should hit its stride in this tilt.

Marion, which originally had an open date this week, has booked a game with the strong Starkie Military eleven of Montgomery, for Grant Field Saturday afternoon. The Alabama team has lost only one game and may give the Marist boys an interesting afternoon.

GOLDEN TERROR and Ray Steele Will Battle on Mat Tonight

A crowd of 4,000 hopeful fans, mostly indoor wrestling turnout here in many years, is expected to watch Ray Steele, alias Pete Sauer, attempt to end the startling winning streak of the 340-pound Golden Terror tonight at the city auditorium.

Although the Terror has won 65 matches and has never been beaten, he nevertheless will be the underdog for the first time in Atlanta. Steele, or Sauer, as many local fans know him, is a former heavyweight champion of the world who claims he lost his title on a fluke. Ray has been after Longston, the current king, ever since dropping his crown and has been promised a shot at the championship here if he whips the Terror.

Should the Terror come through with another triumph, he will be given the battle with the champion. But he meets a real wrestling master in Steele, a foe capable of taking considerable punishment and tying his rivals into tortuous knots.

Cowboy Luttrell, always good for a thrill, meets Dory-Rocha in the semifinal and plenty of fireworks are expected from the meeting of the ex-coal miner and the wild cowboy.

The Mysterious Mr. X, another masked grappler, makes his first appearance here in the opening event at 8:30, taking on Chief Cheek, the colorful and stormy gypsy.

Service men will be admitted free.

Eisenhower Denies German Claims of Transport Sinkings

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Lieutenant General Dwight D. Eisenhower branded as lies today the recent German claims that submarines had sunk several liners "heavily laden with American troops."

The commander of United States Army forces in the European theater issued this statement:

"At the end of September the Axis spread and later repeated stories that several large ocean-going liners 'heavily laden with American troops' had been torpedoed. These claims are completely unfounded and are merely another example of the untrustworthiness of Axis reports."

"The information has been withheld until every American soldier that was on the Atlantic at the time of the German announcement was landed safely in the United Kingdom and we could assure ourselves of the complete falsity of the German claims."

"The navies, whose task it is to escort our continuous troop movements into this theater, have been and are daily according magnificent protection—a fact which every soldier in our Army clearly appreciates and gratefully acknowledges."

"Those who reached 18 between July 1 and September 30 will be required to register November 7 and will be examined later that month and called up for service as needed, the first of them in December."

"In December the age limit was reduced to 18½ years. At the outset of the war it had been 20."

Bevin said the manpower requirements of all services made the reduction to 18 "urgently necessary," but that men would not be sent abroad for service until they reached 18.

Mrs. S. A. Black, Former Atlanta Resident, Dies

Once Active Junior League Worker Succumbs in Columbia.

Mrs. S. Augustus Black, formerly of Atlanta, died yesterday at her home in Columbia, S. C., it was learned here last night.

Born in Charleston, S. C., she was the former Miss Emma Thomas O'Neill. A niece of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Smythe, of Atlanta, she moved here about 1932, when she was married to S. Augustus Black, a member of the legal department of the Southern Bell Telephone Company.

Mrs. Black was a prominent member of the Atlanta Junior League, serving as an active board member and chairman of a number of committees. She was also a member of the Cathedral of Christ the King.

She had been living in Columbia for the past two years.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Thomas Augustus and Charles Black, and one brother, Frank Q. O'Neill, of the U. S. Naval Reserve. Funeral plans will be announced.

Georgia's 'Corn Hit by Rationing

Georgia corn—the liquid kind—is far less in evidence today than it was in the days of the 18th amendment, investigators of the alcohol tax unit said yesterday. They estimated that illicit distilling has dropped 60 per cent since priorities and rationing went into effect.

Shortages of sugar, copper, sheet iron, tires and gasoline have made the moonshiner's lot an unhappy one.

Likewise cutting the output of liquid corn has been the selective service system, which has taken a lot of mountain shiners from their homes and relocated them in Army camps.

Hal Smith Named Region Rent Head

Hal L. Smith, young Atlanta businessman who has been serving as OPA's Atlanta defense rental area director since July 23, was appointed late yesterday as regional rent executive, it was announced by Oscar A. Strauss Jr., regional administrator.

In this capacity Smith will have charge of federal rent control in Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, the Carolinas and Virginia.

Smith will be succeeded as Atlanta director by Charles D. Hurt, Atlanta lawyer who has been serving under Smith as chief attorney in the Atlanta office.

Smith succeeds Frank C. Ralls, who has been transferred to a key position in the Washington, D. C., rent headquarters.

Mrs. E. E. Perkins Dies; Services This Morning

Mrs. E. E. Perkins, of 2184 Belvedere avenue, S. W., died Wednesday night at the residence.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. E. W. Reid and Mrs. L. J. Boggs, of Atlanta, and Mrs. M. A. Murphy, of Belle Glade, Fla.; one son, H. E. Perkins, of Alendale, S. C., and a sister, Mrs. T. J. Brandon, of Tallahassee, Fla.

Religious services will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill with the Rev. E. T. Wilson officiating. Burial will be at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in Cordele.

Sinking of 2 Vessels Increases Toll to 503

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Destruction of a medium-sized United States merchant vessel by enemy aircraft in the North Atlantic, announced by the Navy yesterday, increased to 503 the Associated Press count of announced losses of United Nations and neutral ships in western Atlantic waters since Pearl Harbor.

The Navy announced earlier yesterday the sinking of a United States merchantman in the north Atlantic last month by a U-boat with the probable loss of three crew members.

Chiang Getting Ready For Counteroffensive

CHUNGKING, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek told the People's Political Council today the Chinese armies were making all possible preparations for a counteroffensive against Japan.

The Japanese have reached the peak of their offensive power and now are on the decline," Chiang said. "Allied victory is a certainty."

He spoke at the opening meeting of the third session of the council, China's nearest approach to a parliament.

Cookies for Soldiers' Boxes

Cookies that pack well and have a "keeping" quality are much in demand, for almost every home now has a loved one in the armed services. A box of cookies from "mom" is received with whoops of delight by a boy in an Army camp, no matter how well fed that boy admittedly is. And making cookies for him has a way of dissipating to some extent the loneliness of his "mom." Clip these recipes and refer to them in the weeks to come when you'll want sweets to tuck into every holiday package.

Applesauce Cookies.

1-2 cup shortening.
1 cup sugar.
1 egg.
2 1-2 cups sifted flour.
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon.
1-4 teaspoon cloves.

1-2 teaspoon salt.
1-2 teaspoon soda.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
1 cup thick unsweetened applesauce.
1-2 cup raisins.
1-2 cup chopped nuts.
Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg. Beat well. Sift flour, measure, and sift again with spices, salt, soda and baking powder. Add alternately with applesauce to creamed mixture. Add raisins and nuts. Drop by spoon on greased cookie sheet about 2 inches apart. Bake in moderate oven 400 degrees, about 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 5 dozen.

Date-Peanut Drops.

1-2 cup shortening.
3-4 cup peanut butter.
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon.
1-4 teaspoon cloves.

1-2 cup corn syrup or honey.
2 eggs.
2 cup chopped dates.
2 cups sifted flour.
1-2 teaspoon salt.
2 1-2 teaspoons baking soda.
1-4 cup milk.

Cream together shortening, peanut butter and sugar. Add syrup or honey and beat thoroughly. Beat eggs and add. Add dates and vanilla extract. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt and add to creamed mixture. Blend well. Drop by teaspoons on greased baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees 15 minutes. Makes about 4 dozen 2-inch cookies.

Peanut Drop Cookies.

1-2 cup fat.
1 cup syrup (sorghum cane corn or maple).
2 eggs; beaten.
2 cups sifted flour.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
1-2 teaspoon salt.
1 cup roasted peanuts.
2 teaspoons cinnamon.

Cream fat and syrup and add beaten eggs. Sift dry ingredients together. Add the finely chopped peanuts. Combine with first mixture. Stir until blended. Drop onto a slightly greased baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. If sorghum is used, reduce the baking powder to 1 teaspoon and add 1-2 teaspoon soda.

Snowball Cookies.

Cream 3-4 cup butter or margarine until very light and fluffy, then beat in 1-4 cup undiluted evaporated milk, a little at a time. Add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla and 1-4 teaspoon salt. Measure 3-4 cup flour and mix with 6 tablespoons sifted confectioners sugar. Sift the mixture, then add the butter mixture a little at a time, blending thoroughly. When all flour and sugar is in the mixture should be a soft dough. Then add 1 cup coarsely chopped pecans, peanuts or walnuts and mix well. Break off very small bits of the dough, about a scant teaspoonful for each cookie, and shape into small balls between the palms of the hands.

Place the cookie on a floured baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from pans and while they are still warm drop cookies into a paper bag containing 1-2 cup confectioners sugar. Shake bag until cookies are covered with sugar then spread out to cool. Makes 60 small cookies.

Raisin Rocks.

1 cup shortening.
1 cup brown sugar.
1 teaspoon salt.
Flour.
1 teaspoon ginger.
1 teaspoon soda.
2 cups molasses.
1 cup seeded raisins.

Put shortening, sugar, molasses, ginger and salt into a saucepan together. Stir the mixture until it boils, then boil without stirring five minutes. Pour into a bowl and stir in flour and soda sifted together until it is just stiff enough to drop from a spoon. Add the raisins and drop by spoonfuls onto a greased shallow baking pan. Bake in a moderate oven 375 to 400 degrees.

Frosted or plain doughnuts also seem especially appropriate for Halloween. Frost them with any frosting you desire, but for a good basic doughnut recipe try the following:

Sift 4 cups flour with 4 teaspoons baking powder, 3-4 teaspoons salt and 1-4 teaspoon grated nutmeg. Sift three times. Add 1 cup sugar to 2 well beaten eggs and beat with an egg beater until thick and creamy. Stir in 1-4 teaspoon lemon extract and 1 teaspoon grated lemon or orange rind (or this may be omitted), and 2 tablespoons melted shortening. Add sifted flour alternately to this mixture with one 1 cup milk, mixing lightly. Roll to one-third inch thickness, shape with a floured

Gingerbread.

1-2 cup molasses
1-2 cup melted shortening
1-2 cup sour milk
1 egg
1-2 teaspoon soda
1 cup flour
1 cup ginger
2 teaspoons cinnamon
Nutmeg

Mix ingredients in order given, sifting the soda with the flour before adding it. Bake in a moderate oven (350 to 375 degrees F.) in a greased shallow pan or in muffin tins. Care must be taken to prevent burning. This recipe will serve eight.

Tart-Like Orange Sauce:

2 tablespoons butter
1-4 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs well beaten
1-2 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until well thickened, about 10 minutes. Serve it slightly warm.

Frosted or plain doughnuts also seem especially appropriate for Halloween. Frost them with any frosting you desire, but for a good basic doughnut recipe try the following:

Sift 4 cups flour with 4 teaspoons baking powder, 3-4 teaspoons salt and 1-4 teaspoon grated nutmeg. Sift three times. Add 1 cup sugar to 2 well beaten eggs and beat with an egg beater until thick and creamy. Stir in 1-4 teaspoon lemon extract and 1 teaspoon grated lemon or orange rind (or this may be omitted), and 2 tablespoons melted shortening. Add sifted flour alternately to this mixture with one 1 cup milk, mixing lightly. Roll to one-third inch thickness, shape with a floured

Popcorn

Melt 1-2 cup granulated sugar over direct flame. Add boiling water and cook to smooth syrup. In separate pan cook cream, brown sugar, butter and remaining 1-2 cup granulated sugar. Cook to soft ball stage. Combine two syrup and cook to firm ball stage. Cool syrup to lukewarm. Place each apple on a wooden skewer, holding it from stem end. Dip in syrup, making sure that only one-half of the apple is coated. Dip in ice water, then in popcorn. Remove skewers and replace with small, white candle and two green leaves.

Jack O'Lantern Custard Dessert

1-2 cup granulated sugar
1-2 cup boiling water
1-2 cup cream
1 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter
8 apples
16 leaves
8 four-inch candles (wooden skewers)

Halloween Parties Are Most Informal

Halloween has always meant frolics and gaiety . . . and this year it means a grand opportunity for you to give that little "informal party" you have been planning for so long for the boys in the Army camp near your home . . . or the Saturday night bridge gang, or maybe just for junior's neighborhood buddies.

But the backbone of your refreshments will be the delicious spiced punch served steaming hot with your fruit and cake. The recipe below yields approximately eight portions.

Hot Spiced Punch.

3-4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon allspice
3 sticks cinnamon
Grating of nutmeg
2 quarts of sweet apple cider.

Thoroughly mix brown sugar, salt and spices; add to sweet cider, and simmer for 10 minutes; strain through cheesecloth and reheat. Serve in mugs or thick cups.

Generations of children have loved popcorn apples at Halloween. This is the way they are

Rain Enables Hancock Farmers To Sow Grain

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
SPARTA, Ga., Oct. 22.—Hancock county farmers who have been needing rain so that grain and winter cover crops could be planted, received an excellent shower Tuesday night and they may begin now to break their lands which have been cleared after the harvest. Considerable cotton is yet to be picked and other crops are to be gathered, but some land is ready to plant in grain and legume crops.

This rain was also fine on fall gardens, which will play a big part in the food for defense program being worked out on every farm.

Japs Acknowledge Loss Of Transports in Java

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Japanese acknowledged today, belatedly and backhandedly, that they lost several transports last February in the landing on the Dutch East Indies island of Java.

A Tokyo report in the newspaper Asahi, broadcast by the Berlin radio, listed two Japanese transports and an enemy gunboat as already raised by divers in Bantam bay, Java, and said that salvage crews were working on "several Japanese transports which all had been sunk when the Japanese landed on Java."

Catholics To Hold Meeting in Macon

A delegation of approximately 50 Atlanta Catholic leaders will attend the annual convention of the Catholic Laymen's Association of Georgia in Macon this weekend, it was announced yesterday by Estes Doremus, president of the Atlanta branch.

Incidental to the convention, there will be a meeting of the board of trustees of the St. Joseph's Male Orphanage, Washington, Ga., tomorrow night, presided over by the Most Rev. Gerald P. O'Hara, bishop of Atlanta and Savannah. The Atlanta trustees are Bernard J. Kane and sisters Doremus.

In addition to the meeting of the board of trustees, there will be a meeting of the board of trustees of the St. Joseph's Male Orphanage, Washington, Ga., tomorrow night, presided over by the Most Rev. Gerald P. O'Hara, bishop of Atlanta and Savannah. The Atlanta trustees are Bernard J. Kane and sisters Doremus.

He made the suggestion at a press conference, labeling it himself as a "trial balloon." He reversed usual procedure by asking newspapermen what success they thought might be obtained by a campaign to induce consumers to conserve heating oil.

Stimson Admits 4 Tokyo Raid Fliers May Be Prisoners

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Official acknowledgement that four United States aviators who participated in the bombing of Tokyo April 18 may be in Japanese hands, came from the War Department today amid indications that the Axis might be heading toward formal repudiation of the accepted laws of humanity in warfare.

U. S. Fortresses Outfight Nazis In Lorient Raid

Nine Focke-Wulf 190's Are Shot Down by American Craft.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—American Flying Fortresses displayed once more their mastery over the best German planes by shooting down nine Focke-Wulf 190s yesterday while fighting their way to bomb the Lorient submarine bases. United States headquarters announced today.

Three Fortresses were lost, the largest number the Germans yet have been able to bag on one raid. The raiders ran into extremely bad weather which hampered their mission considerably, although their bombs were seen to crash directly on the target.

The successful running fight of 300 miles against the best German opposition pointed to the day when Fortress formations will go directly east into Germany itself. Western Germany with its arsenals is nearer than Lorient.

Bad weather kept most of the big bombers grounded last night. RAF fighter squadrons, however, resumed daylight attacks on ground objectives in northern France and set two armed landings.

Stimson stressed in today's conference that he had noted many had escaped after having made forced landings.

Frank said that the United States had one selling point with the Latin-American people, and only one—our common ideal of democracy."

"I refer to the common background and psychology which we share with all the Latin-American people," he said, "and our common descent from an old world."

"So long as we go on appeasing our own race-discriminators, the United States will not make much headway in South America where the majority of the Latin-American people have large part-Negro, part-Indian or part-Oriental populations."

He said that this nation must deal realistically with the official authorities in Latin America.

"They must do so in such a way as not to bait, but rather to encourage, the Latin-American people in their struggle to solve their own infinitely difficult democratic problems and to preserve their own wonderful human values," he said.

Frank's talk was broadcast nationally over CBS and rebroadcast to Latin America.

PLANE OVER ICELAND. REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A German Focke-Wulf plane, presumably on reconnaissance, was sighted over Reykjavik today and was driven off by heavy antiaircraft fire, the United States Army reported. Reykjavik had a 40-minute alert. It was the third time in the past two weeks that the guns of the Reykjavik area have opened fire on enemy aircraft.

Coupled with the statements was the threat that "day will come eventually when those responsible will be called to account for their actions."

Nutrition Value To Fall in '43, Expert Reports

Government Authority Cites Indicated Short- age of Vitamin A.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A government nutrition authority said today the nutritional value of the civilian food supply in prospect for 1943 would be below the average of the past two years because of indicated shortages of vitamin A, fats and carbohydrates.

Doctor Hazel K. Stiebeling, food economist for the Agriculture Department's Bureau of Home Economics, said the 1943 diet was expected to be "about as good as—perhaps a little better than—the year 1936" when the "raw food taken into the nation's kitchens appeared to be low in at least two vitamins—riboflavin and niacin."

Principal sources of vitamin A, fats and carbohydrates are meats, butter, cheese, milk, fish oils, many vegetables and fruits.

Because of unprecedented demands of the American armed forces and needs of the United Nations and because of agricultural production difficulties, supplies of these foods are not expected to be sufficient next year.

Doctor Stiebeling said, to provide civilians with a diet to which they have become accustomed.

She said that as a consequence some control over distribution of vital foods would be necessary "for the persons who can run the fastest and arrive the first will come out on top."

"There may be less," she said, "for those formerly in the high-income groups."

Dr. Stiebeling explained that while 1936's food purchases appeared to provide adequate diets, with a few exceptions, more than half the families existed on diets seriously deficient in one or more important elements.

She said, for example, that in 1936 half of the nation's families had diets below recognized standards in calcium; 30 per cent were deficient in vitamin A; 65 per cent in ascorbic acid, and 60 per cent in both thiamine and riboflavin. Hence, some form of control over distribution would be necessary, she said, to provide an equitable sharing of 1943 food elements.

Deficiency in riboflavin may lead to skin and scalp diseases. Nicotinic acid is called the anti-pellagra element. Calcium is vital to the development of strong bones and good teeth. A lack of thiamine causes nervous and digestive diseases. Ascorbic acid is known as a scurvy-preventing substance, while vitamin A is essential for good eyesight.

'Close Fascist Embassies' Is Plea of Frank

Author Says Axis Sab- otage Working in Latin America.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Waldo Frank, lecturer and author of books on South America, said tonight that "all Fascist embassies in America—not forgetting the Franco embassies, perhaps the most treacherously dangerous of all—should be closed."

In an address for delivery before a dinner meeting of the Union for Democratic Action held in his honor, Frank spoke of an "Axis system of espionage and sabotage in South America" and said:

"The United States should begin with the one in Washington. Spanish Fascist embassies are the common allies of the Nazis. They are over there and are carefully trained to carry on even when the Axis embassies are closed."

Frank recently returned from a tour to South America during which he was assaulted and beaten in Buenos Aires by a group which objected to printed comment of his interpreted as being critical of the Argentine government.

"The United States must send deeds, not words, to Latin America—without deeds all the propaganda and the economic aid—good in itself—simply creates distrust," he continued. "What we've got to go down there with is the record—the fair and eloquent record of our own democratic way of life."

Frank said that the United States had one selling point with the Latin-American people, and only one—our common ideal of democracy."

"I refer to the common background and psychology which we share with all the Latin-American people, and only one—our common descent from an old world."

ARMY CHAPLAIN.
DUBLIN, Ga., Oct. 22.—The Rev. C. E. McDaniel, native of Laurens county and former pastor of the Garden City Baptist church in Savannah, has received a commission of first lieutenant as a chaplain in the Army and has been ordered to report to Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass., to take a training course.

WHERE ARE THOSE JUNK CARS?

The War Production Board wants a record of every old car in Fulton and DeKalb counties that is no longer serving a useful purpose. If you have one yourself or know where one is located, fill in the following form, mail it to this newspaper, and WPB will see that the owner is contacted and will get the car headed for a junk yard.

Invasion Attempts*At Malta Reported

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Reuters quoted the Bishop of Gibraltar, the Rt. Rev. Harold Buxton, today as saying there had been "minor attempts" to invade Malta, Britain's Mediterranean island stronghold off the coast of Sicily.

It said he related also that Prime Minister Churchill recently visited Gibraltar and traveled through the fortress in a police patrol wagon in order to keep his presence there a secret.
